PLANE CRASH FATAL TO JOHNSON

G-Men Hunt Knife Used In Mattson Boy Murder

FIND WOUND IN AUTOPSY ON LAD

Evidence Shows Charles Fought Desperately For His Life

TACOMA, Wash. (AP)—Law officers hunted a long knife today as one of the most important clues to the identity of Charles Mattson's kidnap-killer.

The knife was used in inflicting a deep wound in the kidnaped boy's back before he was slain by a blow on the head. Reports of the stab wound came from several reliable sources.

The same sources said the wound was narrow, apparently made by a long slim blade. They could not say whether a carving knife, stiletto or large penknife had been used, but added the weapon was one of the three.

Fought Desperately

The wound was one of the chief reasons for the autopsy performed under orders of the federal bureau of investigations Monday night. Importance of the knife in the hunt was emphasized by the bureau's attempts to keep news of the wound under cover.

Physicians, funeral home employes and all others who had reason to view the body closely were warned to say nothing of the condition.

None of the sources would state definitely that 10-year-old Charles had been attacked by a pervert during his captivity, though they did admit he had apparently been subjected to beatings and abuse for several days before his death.

In examinations made Monday when the body was found, physicians discovered ample evidence to prove Charles fought desperately for his life. The body was covered with bruises and scratches and the fingers were spread as though he had clawed with all his strength.

Investigate Everything

Officers believed it certain he had grabbed his slayer many times but found no definite evidence he had clawed the man's skin enough so the marks might be recognized. Autopsy physicians did not reveal whether bits of skin had been found under the child's fingernails along with the clay imbedded there.

Harold Nathan, head of the federal agents here, refused to comment on the knife hunt, but reasserted the bureau's policy of "investigating everything." He said rumors from Texas, California, Missouri and several places in Washington were among those followed closely. He declined to say whether agents from here had been sent to any of those places.

Officers said today no official report of the cause, time and place of Charles' death would be made for some time.

Wally's Ernest Sues Matron on Slander Charge

LONDON. (AP) — Ernest A. Simpson, former husband of Mrs. Willis Simpson, has filed a slander suit against Mrs. Joan Sutherland, alleging she said Simpson received a sum of money to divorce his American wife, it was learned today. Mrs. Sutherland is the wife of Lieut. Col. A. H. C. Sutherland.

The suit, sources close to Simpson said, was the result of Simpson's efforts to quiet talk of his divorce and alleged payment of money which arose after the temporary decree was issued to his wife at Ipswich Oct. 27.

The action was based on alleged remarks made by Mrs. Sutherland at a luncheon party in London, it was said, after the abdication of King Edward VIII.

RELIEF BILL IN HOUSE

Committee Studies Huge Recovery Plan; May Reduce Amount

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Harry L. Hopkins, works progress administrator, appeared before a house appropriations subcommittee today to explain President Roosevelt's request for $790,000,000 to finance "recovery and relief" for the next five months.

Consideration of the appropriation measure was begun as western and other congressional blocks planned a campaign to increase the amount of the billion mark. Others on Capital Hill were seeking to reduce it.

Purposes Told

Hopkins, who handles billions, was accompanied by Corrington Gill, assistant administrator and statistical expert. Neither would comment in advance of the hearing, which was behind closed doors.

Chairman Buchanan (D., Tex.) of the committee asserted before the hearing convened that there was "no secret" about what the $790,000,000 was intended for. He said $655,000,000 would go to WPA; $80,000,000 to the resettlement administration; $20,000,000 to the treasury department and $35,000,000 to other governmental agencies for relief purposes.

2,284,000 on WPA

Chairman Buchanan declined to predict what action the committee might take, but there was a possibility he might attempt to pare the $790,000,000. He said he favored elimination of the resettlement administration's lending powers.

The latest report showed 2,284,000 persons were receiving WPA wages on Dec. 12. Another 860,000, were on relief rolls in other departments.

BLAST WRECKS POST OFFICE

SPOKANE. (AP)—Two explosions at the front of the postoffice here shortly after 12:30 p. m. today blew the concrete steps of the building to bits.

Postal officials said the explosions were under the steps, and probably were caused by gas mains. A small girl was hurled to the sidewalk by the concussion.

The terrific blast hurled great chunks of concrete steps about the sidewalk, ripping them completely out and leaving a big wreckage-strewn gap at the front of the structure.

Plan Adjustment Of County Wages

A movement to adjust the wages of county employes, probably with an upward revision in the lower brackets, got under way yesterday.

At the suggestion of Supervisor Harry D. Riley, Chairman Willard Smith appointed John Mitchell and N. E. West to study wages and bring a recommendation to the board.

The committeemen were authorized to hire help to analyze data and prepare a scheduled giving equal pay for equal services.

BAN PLACED ON FROZEN CITRUS

Growers Warned Against Shipping Fruit Hit By Frost Wave

With the threat of further frost damage to Orange county citrus orchards ended today, citrus growers were warned against shipment of frozen fruit.

Agricultural Commissioner D. W. Tubbs attended a meeting of commissioners and standardization officials of the state department of agriculture yesterday afternoon when A. A. Brock, state agricultural commissioner, issued the warning

Ship at Own Risk

"Shippers moving fruit during the emergency period do so at their own risk," Brock warned. "They will face prosecution for violating the state agricultural act if samples later reveal the fruit to have been frozen."

Brock placed no limit to the emergency period, but said samples would not be cut until five days after shipping, since evidences of frost in some cases do not develop immediately.

Shipping Reported

The meeting yesterday followed a report by Tubbs that attempts to ship frozen oranges from Orange county have been made. He said today that about 15,000 boxes of oranges were picked Saturday and Sunday following the frost and are in packing houses now.

As was announced exclusively in The Journal yesterday, shipments of oranges from packing houses in Orange county affiliated with the California Fruit Growers Exchange are being held up until sufficient time has elapsed to show up damage in oranges.

Brock's Ruling

Rules set forth by Brock said: "Citrus fruits which have been subjected to low temperatures sufficient to eventually cause serious damage due to freezing . . . shall be considered to have been shipped in violation of such provisions if a sample of the lot in question is held for a certain length of time and evidence of serious freezing damage . . . are present."

In the meantime, a movement was under way in Orange county to ask packing houses to separate fruit which was protected by smudging and that which was not. Object of the plan is to protect growers who spent large sums of money for heating their orchards.

Preliminary estimates of the damage to oranges in this county run from 20 to 25 per cent of the crop.

34 AMERICANS IN MADRID

MADRID. (AP) — Thirty-four Americans living in the United States embassy at Madrid declined today to leave the Spanish capital despite urgent warnings from state department officials.

None had requested transportation to Valencia when the noon deadline arrived, although several said they might depart later.

The warning sounded by Eric C. Wendelin, third secretary now at Valencia, that the embassy building might be closed, caused some concern among the refugees.

Americans in the besieged capital now total 102. Some are wives of Spanish husbands who have refused to leave their homes while others are Puerto Ricans and Filipinos.

Sheppard Put on 3 Committees

Congressman Harry S. Sheppard received some of the choice committee assignments which were dropped into the laps of California congressmen today by the Democratic caucus at Washington, D. C.

An Associated Press dispatch today said that Sheppard received assignments on the Indian affairs, mines, and public buildings and grounds committees.

SHIP STRIKE IS FELT IN SANTA ANA

Higher Freight Costs Boost prices; Some Food Stocks Short

Orange county felt the grip of the maritime strike tightening slowly but surely today.

Effects of the strike were reflected here directly in an acute shortage of many food items, increased cost to consumers on these items and in others where freight charges have nearly doubled on certain commodities.

As a direct result of the strike, 15 employes of the Tree Sweet Orange Juice company of Santa Ana have lost work, according to H. L. Manker, manager of the plant. Profits of the company have been cut heavily because of increased freight costs, he said, and markets have been lost to Florida. He estimated that his concern alone has lost $5000 worth of business to Italy since the strike, two-thirds of which would have been spent for local labor.

Short on Pineapple

Local wholesale and retail grocery concerns are completely out of many varieties of pineapple, and it won't be long until there isn't any more at all. Ben Manker, manager of the Smart and Final company, said today there is no more pink salmon available. There is a serious shortage of imported items, such as oil for making soap and shortening. If the situation grows much worse, it won't be long until such imported items as coffee, cocoa, cane sugar, etc, are gone. Local corners are completely out of some varieties of cane sugar.

The shortage is reflected here in increased costs to the consumer on some items. Coffee, for instance, has gone up a cent a pound, Manker said and likely will go up more.

Lumber Prices Up

Lumber prices have advanced between three and four dollars a thousand feet, according to William J. Tway, manager of the Santa Ana Lumber company, this representing the difference in cost of water freight and rail freight. Glass and steel prices for materials used in construction have advanced even more. Price of

BROWNE TALK IS FINANCED

Lewis E. Browne, noted author and lecturer, will speak in Santa Ana on the Orange County Public forum program.

He will address audiences here the nights of Jan. 25, Feb. 1 and 8, despite the refusal of the board of education to rescind Superintendent of Schools Frank A. Henderson's order to the adult education department to cancel the lectures.

Group to Finance It

This was learned definitely by The Journal today after a group of private citizens had agreed to finance the costs of the lectures and Director Homer C. Chaney announced that the dates originally set for the Browne lectures are being held open for him.

Chaney said today he still is expecting Browne to come, and that he will come if the costs are underwritten by a private group of citizens. The federal forum cannot pay expenses for speakers, he pointed out.

Chaney added that he has never cancelled the Browne lectures. If his lectures are underwritten, Browne will be given the time scheduled. This, he said, has the approval of Henderson and the forum board.

Board Denied Pleas

The board of education here has refused to allow Browne to speak under the sponsorship of the board on the adult education program. Members of the board Monday night turned thumbs down on a plea from a large group of citizens that Browne be permitted to speak here. In a tempestuous meeting, charges of dictatorship, un-Americanism, censorship and opposition to free speech were hurled, but Dr. Margarete Baker, board member, was the only member in favor of rescinding the Henderson order.

W. M. Burke, local attorney and one of the group interested in seeing Browne speak here, went to Los Angeles yesterday to contact Browne.

S. A. Chamber May Lose Its Offices In Annex

OFFICE SPACE NEEDED FOR WELFARE

Attempts to Uncover Lease on Site Thus Far Unsuccessful

Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce may lose its office building at the courthouse annex because the welfare department needs more space and more workers to clear up old age applications.

That is, if county officials can find a record of the agreement under which the chamber uses the quarters rent free.

Supervisor Steele Finley, welfare committeeman, told the board yesterday that there are 494 old-age pension applications pending in the welfare office.

Calls It Injustice

"I feel it is an injustice to the people who apply to keep them waiting because of delay in handling the applications," Finley declared. If these people are entitled to aid, we are losing $75,000 or more a month that would come from the state."

He said five or six extra workers will be needed for two or three months to clear up the situation. There are 65 applications pending which were filed prior to last July, he added.

Supervisor N. E. West suggested that the space now used by the chamber of commerce could be used.

Had 10-Year Lease

When the county bought St. Ann's inn for use as an annex, West said, the chamber had in force from the inn corporation a 10-year lease on its site. This, he said, expired a year ago, but the chamber has continued to occupy the building.

Efforts to dig up the lease or other agreements failed this morning both in the county clerk's office and in the purchasing agent's office.

It was recalled, however, that the chamber leased a portion of the inn land and erected a building. When the county bought the land, it acquired also the chamber site, subject to the lease.

No Minute Entry

Chamber officials apparently had an understanding with the board of supervisors last year for continued use of the structure, but no entry could be found on official minutes.

Finley suggested that offices of county surveyor and the road department could be consolidated to gain space. It was suggested also that basement rooms soon to be vacated by the California highway patrol might be used temporarily. They have been assigned for use of the county accessor.

Finley is to report his recommendations on office space and welfare department needs next Tuesday.

NEGRO HELD IN TUB KILLING

NEW YORK. (AP)—The bathtub slaying of pretty Mrs. Mary Robinson Case came to a swift and unexpected denouement today when investigators seized a 32-year-old Harlem negro and charged him with the crime.

Thirty-six hours after the 25-year-old housewife was strangled and beaten to death in her Jackson Heights, Queens, apartment, District Attorney Charles P. Sullivan announced that Major Greene, wiry negro employed in the apartment building, had been charged with the woman's murder.

Greene, who previously had been questioned and then released, was arrested at his home in Harlem and taken to the apartment where Frank Case, 30-year-old hotel supply company employe, found the battered body of his wife Monday.

Johnsons Victims in Crash Plane

Above are pictured Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson, noted explorers, who were passengers on the airliner that crashed yesterday near Newhall. Johnson succumbed this morning to his injuries, and Mrs. Johnson's condition was reported "fair." They were scheduled to speak here Monday afternoon at an Ebell club program.

Local Men Friends Of Dead Explorer

Death of Martin Johnson, famous explorer, today brought sadness to two Orange county officials who knew him in his youth.

W. F. Menton, district attorney, knew Johnson as a boy in Independence, Kan. Johnson, he said, was a camera fan in early days. The explorer's movies of African wild animals are famous.

Eugene Fenelon, new county purchasing agent, knew the explorer intimately and had a part in the opening of his career.

Both signed up with Jack London for his South Seas voyage, which formed the basis for a famous London book, "The Voyage of the Snark."

"I'm certainly sorry to hear about Martin," Fenelon commented.

He recalled that he helped his friend London select a staff from thousands of letters which poured in from ambitious adventurers who wished to go on the trip.

"Johnson was just a raw kid from Independence, but there was something in his letter that caught Jack's fancy, and he wrote for him to come along," the purchasing agent recalled.

Already an amateur photographer, Johnson handled all the photography for the voyage, and improved his technique.

When Johnson returned from the trip with a collection of weapons and curios, he was signed on the Orpheum circuit, remaining there four years. This attracted enough attention to launch him permanently on an explorer's career.

Another who has a personal interest in the fate of the Johnsons is Mrs. Luella Blackburn, 712 Cypress street, who was Mrs. Johnson's teacher for two years in the public schools of Chanute, Kan.

ENGINE KILLS EIGHT MEN

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—A freight locomotive backing up in the darkness of the Mojave desert ran over a section crew, killing eight men, the Union Pacific Railroad said today.

The accident occurred outside Brant, a small town on the main line 75 miles west of Las Vegas.

The crew had been called out at 3 a. m. to clear snow from the tracks at Sima, 10 miles west of Grant. The men were using a small motor car. Sima is the top of the hill, the down grade of which leads through Cajon Pass into the San Bernardino valley.

Only the foreman of the crew, Vernal A. Anderson, 36, of Grant, the father of five children, has been identified, said the railroad office. The bodies were taken to Las Vegas.

Fears Rising for Holy Father

VATICAN CITY. (AP) — Fears were felt today in Vatican circles a vein in Pope Pius' right leg might burst at any time, suplicating the danger of infection caused by the varicose vein in his left leg.

Until the swollen right leg, in which the varicose condition recently has grown worse, is relieved by natural and artificial drainage, well-informed circles said, the Holy Father must suffer periods of intense agony.

Official circles reported the Pope slept "fairly well" last night.

AUTO PARLEY ARRANGED

DETROIT. (AP) — Gov. Frank Murphy, acting in the face of spreading strikes in General Motors plants while hundreds of national guardsmen watched a tense situation in Flint, Mich., moved today to bring corporation officials and union labor leaders to Lansing for a joint conference.

Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers of America, announced he would accept the invitation, which also went to William S. Knudsen, executive vice president of General Motors.

Should Knudsen accept, it would be the first meeting of the opposing sides in formal conference since the start of the strikes which have thrown more than 114,000 General Motors automotive wage earners out of work in 18 cities. At the General Motors office here it was said the governor's letter had not yet been received.

INJURED ARE REMOVED TO HOSPITAL

Western Air Officials Launch Probe; Pilot Tells Crash Tale

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Martin Johnson, noted explorer, died today of injuries suffered in yesterday's Western Air Express transport crash, the second fatality among the 13 persons aboard the ill-fated airliner.

James A. Braden, president of a Cleveland, Ohio, ink company, was crushed to death between two seats when the two-motored plane pancaked on a fog-shrouded mountainside 15 miles from Union Air terminal, its destination at Burbank on a flight from Salt Lake City.

Co-Pilot Clifford P. Owens and A. L. Loomis, of Omaha, Neb., a passenger, were critically hurt, but none of those riding in the big all-metal craft escaped without some injury.

Mrs. Osa Johnson, the explorer's wife, suffered concussion and a fractured right knee.

5th In 30 Days

While snow piled up on the damaged wings and fuselage of the airliner, on a ridge 100 yards below the Los Pinetos ranger lookout station, two governmental inquiries were set in motion in an attempt to determine the cause of the disaster.

It was the fifth major airliner accident in the United States in the last 30 days.

The big game hunter, one of 12 hurt in the crash which killed one passenger, had suffered a concussion, fractures of both legs, multiple fractures of both jaws, fractured nose and severe shock. He was brought to the hospital early today after receiving emergency treatment last night in a ranger lookout station 100 yards from where the Salt Lake City-Los Angeles airliner pancaked at 11:10 a. m. yesterday.

Plan Investigation

With his wife, Osa, his companion of many African safaris with movie cameras, Johnson was on his way to fill a series of lecture engagements in Southern California. Mrs. Johnson suffered concussion and a fractured right knee in the accident.

"An immediate investigation will be made as soon as the injured are cared for, and the facts will be known to the public," said Alvin Adams, president of Western Air Express.

The big two-motored Boeing, one engine torn off and its nose crumpled, lay like a ghost ship, atop the snow-shrouded ridge and 100 yards below the Los Pinetos ranger lookout station.

From the wreck, one passenger, Arthur S. Robinson of Rochester, N. Y., managed to stagger seven miles through yesterday's storm and called rescuers to the scene. He reached Olive View sanitarium with a fractured foot, possible internal injuries and several crushed vertebrae in his spine.

Medical aid was rushed to the plane and the other injured were removed to the unoccupied lookout

CHAMBER PICKS NEW BOARD

Directors of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce elected at the annual election yesterday, will meet to organize and elect officers Monday morning at 9 o'clock, it was announced today by Secretary Howard I. Wood.

Those elected for two-year terms yesterday were William E. Baker, John Scripps, Hale Paxton, John Henderson and Frank Was. For one-year terms, the chamber members named John Price, Clarence Hoiles, Harold Wright, Harry Hanson and W. F. Croddy.

Holdover members of the board are James Harding, Rex Kennedy, W. D. Ranney, Herbert L. Miller and Fred G. Merker. Outgoing members of the board are Milburn Harvey, Hugh J. Lowe, John Henderson and Carl Stein.

Laguna Mammals Battle!

Jose N. Mirano, fisherman of Laguna Beach, told today of a battle between some 50 seals and a dozen whales near the shore north of there.

The whales, one large one and a number of small ones, were sporting around the rocks near Crystal cove when the seals attacked, flopping the biggest mammal about in the water and slashing at it with their tusks until its belly was red with blood.

The battle lasted for more than an hour, with other seals and whales joining the fray, until the big whale, apparently exhausted, struggled out to sea, followed by the rest of its tribe.

The seals watched from the rocks for possession of which they had battled.

Ever Have Growing Pains?

Well, The Journal has 'em. We are not talking about the fact that this is the fastest growing newspaper in these parts. We are referring to the new humorous sketch by Phillips, of Esquire, which now appears daily on the county page. You'll get a chuckle, or a sob, out of "Growing Pains." Look it over today on page 9.

ADVERTISING POLICIES OF COUNTY HIT

West, Finley Criticize Methods as Johnson Is Reappointed

Policies of Orange county's advertising department were criticized sharply yesterday afternoon by two members of the board of supervisors as the board divided three to two in reappointing V. D. Johnson of Orange as advertising manager.

Two other county officials, Harbormaster Thomas Bouchey and George Bremer, garage and machine shop superintendent, were reappointed without opposition.

Supervisors N. E. West and Steele Finley scored the county's advertising, placed largely in two Los Angeles newspapers and a Long Beach paper, as worthless.

Channels Rapped

"We've been spending from $13,000 to $40,000 a year on advertising. The public feels it is wasted, and I think myself that most of it has been wasted," declared West. He said he favored publicity rather than display advertising.

"We don't get any publicity we wouldn't get if we didn't spend a dime with the Los Angeles papers," he added.

"I don't think the Los Angeles advertising is worth a whoop," Finley declared. "I think we should reach the tourists before they start west."

Total Pay $1350

Chairman Willard Smith, who is also advertising committeeman for the board, defended the advertising policy, and declared that if a change is to be made, it should be done at the time the fiscal budget is drawn up. Johnson has entered into contracts with papers for the fiscal year, he said.

Johnson, it was reported, is paid $600 per year and gets a regular advertising agency commission of 15 per cent, which would make his total pay for the year about $1350. The budget this year calls for $5000 in display advertising.

Ackerman Candidate

Besides Johnson, John L. Ackerman, business manager of the Santa Ana Independent, and Charles E. Ocaine, former candidate for supervisor, were applicants for the position.

Ackerman received one vote when supervisors cast secret ballots. The vote was cast by Finley. West did not vote, and Johnson received the support of Harry D. Riley, Chairman Smith, and John Mitchell.

station—a small circular glass house used only during the summer fire season. While they huddled together in this cubicle, bones were set and sedatives administered until a tractor and a mule team could arrive.

The body of Braden was taken to a San Fernando mortuary.

Besides Robinson, the injured were:

Pilot W. W. Lewis, Glendale, Calif., fractured leg and head injuries.

Co-Pilot Clifford P. Owens, Burbank, critical condition with possible fractured skull, internal injuries and broken jaw.

A. L. Loomis, 513 South Happy Hollow, Omaha, Neb., head and internal injuries.

E. E. Spencer, Stromberg Electric company, Chicago, head injuries.

T. E. Tillinghast, United Aircraft, Hartford, Conn.

Behind Schedule

R. T. Anderson, Atlantic City, N. J., fractured leg.

Stewardess Esther Jo Conner, Glendale, fractured leg.

Miss Lita James, Los Angeles, bruises and shock.

H. H. Hulse, Stromberg Electric company, Chicago, bruises.

The Western Air Express transport, sister ship of the airliner which disappeared with seven aboard on a Los Angeles-Salt Lake City flight early in December, was behind schedule yesterday as it approached the airport. Due at 10:45 a. m., the crew radioed at 11:05 a. m. that "we are coming down to the (radio directional) localizer at the field."

Pilot Lewis gave this account of the accident to Richard Gardner, deputy county surveyor, one of the first to reach the plane:

"We had heavy weather as we came over Saugus. The Burbank station seemed to be tied up with other calls, for I couldn't get through to Union Air terminal for my exact bearings. Ice had formed on the ship, and I was driven to the left of my course while attempting to cross the range through Newhall Pass.

"One of the motors was sputtering badly. I thought it was going to be ripped from its nacelle. I decided then that the only thing to do was to make a forced landing.

Terrible Jolt

"Suddenly out of the fog, directly in front of us, loomed the Santa Clara ridge. I turned off my motors and pancaked the ship on the side of the mountain."

Plucky Stewardess Conner said the crash came without warning.

"When the 'fasten seat belts' sign flashed on as we started to come down to level off for the landing at Burbank," she said, "I went through the cabin to see that all passengers had their belts securely fastened.

"Then I took my post in the rear. We had no warning of trouble. There was a sudden, terrible jolt—then blackness. When I came to, I was lying in the cabin aisle, a man's form thrown across me, my legs doubled beneath me."

Other passengers took up her story from that point.

"She's the most courageous woman I've ever seen," said one. "She assured us we needn't worry—that everything would be all right. She kept trying to cheer us up. When rescuers did come she greeted them with: 'Welcome, strangers—I didn't expect to see you so soon.'"

JOURNAL-KVOE NEWSCASTS SCORE THREE 'SCOOPS'

"Scooping" by as much as 45 minutes other radio news flashes, The Journal-KVOE news bulletin service has brought Orange county radio listeners first knowledge of two of the major news events of the past three days.

In the finding of little Charles Mattson's murdered body and in the crash of an airliner near Newhall yesterday, as well as in the death of Martin Johnson this morning, The Journal was first on the air with bulletins. Regular newscasts subsequent to the flashes furnished more complete details than other broadcasts.

KVOE and the Mutual Broadcasting System scored another "beat" last night when two Mutual announcers conducted a special short-wave broadcast from the scene of the airliner's crash. KVOE listeners heard the short-wave program immediately after The Journal's 9 p. m. newscast, which had latest details on the tragedy. Another broadcast from the scene was made at 11 p. m.

G. G. SEEKS NEW PARK DISTRICT

Orange county's supervisors soon will be asked to call an election to remove the Garden Grove park from jurisdiction of water district No. 3 and include it in a new park district, it was announced at a meeting of the Garden Grove Chamber of Commerce last night.

The move would give supervisors authority to levy a small tax for maintenance of the new park, which is being landscaped as a WPA project, L. W. Schauer reported.

Cost of maintenance was estimated at about $1000. The new district would follow the same lines of the water district, and would include about $1,000,000 in assessed valuation, it was reported. Chamber of commerce members approved a plan for the new district as prepared by District Attorney W. F. Menton.

The park, located on Euclid avenue near the Garden Grove business district, comprises about four acres, and now is being landscaped, with trees, gravel walks and underground sprinklers being installed. A new federal project will be asked to complete the work, it was reported.

Chamber members also heard a report from Dr. C. C. Violette, chairman of a committee arranging the annual President's birthday observance, which this year will be in the form of a dinner Jan. 29 in the high school.

NOTT HEADS H. S. STUDENT BODY

Dwight Nott was yesterday elected to the presidency of the Santa Ana High school student body for the term ending in June. He succeeds Frank Was, who in turn was elected commissioner of publications.

Other officers elected include Glenn, Layton, vice president; Lorraine Sweet, re-elected secretary; Allen Patterson, commissioner of athletics; Marguerite Pimental and Peggy Sudduth, girls' self-government committee members, and Ben Blee and Lawrence Dresser, boys' self-government committee members.

Outgoing officers, in addition to Frank Was, are Harold Tucker, vice president; Leonard Stafford and Elson Gaebe, commissioners; Josephine Butler and Aloen Miller, girls' committee, and Dwight Nott, boys' committee.

Women Voters to Hear Book Review

In response to many requests, Mrs. M. E. Geeting, chairman of the League of Women Voters, has consented to give a review at Friday's luncheon meeting of J. A. Wallace's humorous publications, "The Politician, His Habits, His Outcries, and His Protective Coloring."

The meeting is scheduled for 12:30 p. m. Friday at the Doris Kathryn, and reservations may be made at the tearoom. Miss Dorothy Wents, county librarian, will preside in place of Mrs. Geeting.

Important business is also to come before the meeting, according to the chairman, and all members are requested to be present. All women interested in civic affairs also are cordially invited.

Lamb to Be Cook School Subject

Lamb is to be the general subject of Miss Rosamond Hannah's demonstrations tomorrow at the Southern Counties Gas company cooking school in the Y. W. C. A. rooms, 105 East Fifth street.

The session will start at 2 o'clock, and will feature among its recipes lamb shanks, casserole of sweet potatoes, brussels sprouts, fruited pear salad, lemon sherbet, lamb pie with mashed potato border, and an easy and successful custard pie.

Revival on at Brethren Church

Revival services under the leadership of the Rev. W. L. Perkins, D. D., pastor of the United Brethren church of Riverside, are being held each night this week at the local United Brethren church at 7:30 a. m.

The Rev. Mr. Perkins is a well-known churchman and lecturer, and is attracting sizable crowds, the Rev. Everett E. Johnson, pastor, said today.

STILLS SEIZED AT STATION

Raiding a cleverly-constructed cellar under a shack at Stanton, Constables Jesse Elliott and Charles Mitchell, with H. D. McKenzie of the state board of equalization and officers of the federal alcohol tax unit, arrested one man and confiscated 200-gallon and 25-gallon stills.

Santiago Martinez, 45, was jailed by the officers after the raid, arraigned before United States Commissioner Milburn Harvey, and held to answer for trial in federal court on bootlegging charges.

The cellar was under a shack on Date street, Stanton. Similar cellars, the officers said, were discovered beneath Martinez' pool hall and residence, but no evidence was obtained there. They seized five 50-gallon barrels of mash and more than a gallon of liquor which they said had just been taken off the small still, besides other equipment.

11 BOOKMAKERS UNDER ARREST

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—The crusade of the sheriff's vice detail had resulted in the arrest of 11 men in the Pasadena and El Monte areas on suspicion of bookmaking.

In raids on three establishments in the Pasadena district, six men giving their names as Melvin G. Bailey, Alexander L. Petrie, John Williams, Charles J. Allen, Winfield S. Jefferson and Sam A. Grabowsky were arrested.

At two places in the El Monte vicinity, five others, giving their names as Fred Kessler, Ward Lee, Ben Rabuschin, Clarence D. Doran and Herbert Mayer were taken into custody.

UTT TAKES TAX OFFICE OATH

James B. Utt, former assemblyman, this morning officially became an inheritance tax appraiser for Orange county when he took the oath of office before County Clerk J. M. Backs.

Howard Irwin, county Republican central committee chairman who was appointed with Utt to share the job previously held by the late John N. Anderson, was expected to take the oath later today.

Woman Freed as Error Corrected

Due to an error in court records, conviction of Mrs. Mildred Moore, Santa Ana, on peace disturbance charges, was reported Saturday as sustained by Superior Judge G. K. Scovel.

It was found today that Judge Scovel reversed the ruling of Justice of the Peace Chris P. Pann of Huntington Beach, who had found Mrs. Moore guilty. Judge Scovel ordered the case against Mrs. Moore dismissed, but upheld conviction of Mrs. Moore's daughter, Mrs. Lucille Burrier, on the same charge.

As both women were given suspended sentences by Justice Pann, the ruling does not mean that Mrs. Burrier faces a jail term or fine.

Ebell Cancels Monday Program

Shocked at the tragedy which cost the life of Martin Johnson, noted traveler-lecturer, who was to have spoken at their special meeting next Monday afternoon, Santa Ana Ebell club members have canceled all plans for a meeting on that day and will have a clubhouse program at the regular meeting time, Jan. 25, it was announced this morning.

What the program will be on that afternoon has not been definitely decided, according to Mrs. L. A. Chenoweth, chairman of the club programs.

'Drums' Traces Lost Brother

With the arrival of the Lawrence family in Darfeeling, the action of "Drums" definitely takes a forward step in the episode to be broadcast from KVOE tonight beginning at 6:45.

At long last—as Edward would say—traces of Philip Lawrence's missing brother are found in this strange mountain hamlet . . . an old friend of the missing man unexpectedly appears on the scene and gives promise of lending much aid to the search as it progresses through future episodes.

MORE STORMS ON WAY TO COUNTY

Spotty showers, near-cloudbursts, hail, lightning and about every other trick in the bag of an over-active Jupe Pluvius entertained residents of Orange county yesterday and last night.

And last night's dampish display is only a starter, according to government weather observers, who predict another arctic storm, which is scheduled to sweep down from Northern California, bringing additional rain and snow tonight.

Placentia Pelted

County cities reported anywhere from a measly .18 inches in some spots to more than an inch in others. Santa Ana received .61 of an inch up to 8 a. m. today, which brought the total for the last two days to .69 of an inch and the season's mark to 8.82 inches, as compared to 1.73 inches last year.

Placentia experienced almost too much rain in a short time, with 1.24 inches falling in the past 24 hours. Villa Park received .96 of an in inch and Laguna Beach .93 of an inch.

More Showers

Hail pelted a number of communities yesterday afternoon and last night, with a heavy fall of the snow-like substance reported in the Placentia district, where a two-inch depth of either hail or sleet was reported.

Skies might possibly be clear tonight, but Southern California will receive further showers by tomorrow night at the latest, the weather experts claimed today. Mountains received a further coating of snow, but no roads were reported blocked. Temperatures, although higher than during the five-day freeze of last week, will continue below normal.

LOVE IS BLAMED FOR 'FLUNKS'

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—Lazy university freshmen can be prodded into studying and sick ones can be treated, but when they fall in love, watch out for those "flunks," Junior Dean Charles Reeder of Ohio State university's school of commerce said today.

There's no known preventive for the cardiac "disease" he said.

"Although students seldom admit it, their love affairs share with lack of study and poor health the blame for failing class work," said the dean.

"Young men and women enter college just as they are reaching the mating age, and some of those love affairs are much more serious to them than their studies."

West Favors Ban On Tax Publishing

Supervisors today are without a formal statement of policy, despite a second attempt by Supervisor N. E. West to secure adoption of his nine-point program.

Supervisor Steele Finley seconded West's resolution to bring it to a vote, but reported himself "not voting." Harry D. Riley, who seconded West a week ago on the same proposal, joined Chairman Willard Smith and John Mitchell in voting against the measure.

Riley reiterated, however, his personal indorsement of all the provisions, which ask competitive bidding on county purchases, limiting county employment to one person in a family, and ban "huddle" sessions of the board except in "extraordinary circumstances."

SAN DIEGO. (AP)—A coroner's jury cleared James B. Stubbs, 21-year-old San Diego State football player, of responsibility in the death on Jan. 6 of Allan Arthur, 68-year-old pedestrian.

WILKIE FILES RADIO 'CUT' TEST SUIT

Artists appearing on NBC broadcasts are tired of having slices of their salaries taken off from two ends, and so today Capt. Don Wilkie of Laguna Beach appeared in the role of battler for the large Southern California group that appears on the radio programs.

A cross-complaint filed by Attorney B. Z. McKinney of Santa Ana in the Laguna Beach justice court today brought to light the developments which have led to the launching of a test case, expected to be appealed to superior court.

McKinney, acting for the former secret service ace, said Wilkie is bringing the test case to settle the questions as to whether or not it is legal for advertising agencies to take cuts from their clients and also from the talent.

NBC Takes Slice

The NBC, legitimately, takes 15 per cent from the salaries paid talent for acting as an employment agency, McKinney said, but nowhere else in the nation but in Southern California do advertising agencies try to get more than their profit from the advertisers who sponsor a program.

The artists are howling because advertising agents, after arranging agency for $56.30 through T. and demand from 10 to 15 per cent of their salaries or threaten to cancel the broadcast contract, it was stated. Wilkie was sued by the Milton Weinberg Advertising agency fo r$56.30 through T. E. Niles, a collector who was assigned the contract. The Weinberg concern had a contract with the Lincoln Lumber company, makers of Onico tobacco, which entered into a contract for 13 NBC broadcasts, 15-minute programs to be broadcast one a week.

Wilkie was specified as the talent and was to get $125 a broadcast. NBC entered into a contract with Wilkie, agreed to the salary and Wilkie agreed to pay the broadcast company 10 per cent of the salary for the employment, as is customary. Weinberg received 15 per cent of the total cost of the time and program, it was stated, and after entering into the contract asked Wilkie for 15 per cent of his salary, or else.

Paid for 11

Wilkie agreed, and paid them for 11 broadcasts. An extra broadcast was arranged for, which left three for which Wilkie refused to pay the Weinberg company. After being sued for the $56, he filed the cross complaint and demands back the $206.25 he has already paid the advertising firm on the grounds that it is against public policy, illegal for an advertising firm with no employment license to collect such a commission, and because they attempted to realize a secret profit on his salary. He alleged the Lincoln Ulmer company had no knowledge of the secret arrangements.

It all worked out so that Wilkie received but $93.75 a broadcast instead of $125, by having to pay twice for being employed a broadcast talent. Which is the reason all Southern California broadcast artists are up in arms today.

DOPE PEDDLERS ARE EXECUTED

PEIPING, China. (AP)—An estimated 50,000 onlookers watched five narcotics peddlers executed today on the broad steps of the world-famous Temple of Heaven.

The executions were the second in China's anti-narcotics crusade and were performed with gruesome fanfare.

The thousands of witnesses watched intently but when no sign of emotion as the condemned men, shackled and bound, were forced to kneel in front of the rifle squads and be killed with bullets through their skulls.

The almost ceremonial killings started with a bonfire of 10,000 ounces of assorted narcotics which were seized after the "be cured by New Year's or die" drive started this month.

AMERICANS HELD AS HOSTAGES

NANKING. (AP) — Twenty-one Americans, held virtual "prisoners" in the walled, interior city of Sianfu, were reported imperiled today by threats to open warfare between government troops and Communist rebels.

The Americans, together with other foreigners, have sought to leave the revolt-torn city but their evacuation has been blocked by military insurgents seeking to establish a Communist government in northwest China, authoritative advices declared.

A communication received here, dated Jan. 9, disclosed the precarious situation of the foreign residents who, it was feared, may be held as hostages to prevent bombing of the city by Nanking planes.

NEW GERSHWIN OPERA

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—The romantic western cowboy will be the subject of a George Gershwin opera when the composer finds a story that pleases him, he said today. The man who started in Tin Pan Alley will be guest conductor and piano soloist late this week for the San Francisco symphony orchestra.

PICKET LAW REPEAL IS PLEADED

Characterizing the new county anti-picketing ordinance as "an attempt to put a legal club in the hands of employers," Mrs. Barbara Brooks of Costa Mesa asked its repeal yesterday afternoon in an address to the board of supervisors.

The board took no action, and did not acknowledge Mrs. Brooks' remarks until later, when Chairman Willard Smith said he felt it had been better not to attempt an answer and precipitate an argument.

Mrs. Brooks, wife of a former Orange county rancher, reminded the board she had appeared two years ago to ask repeal of a former, less stringent anti-picketing ordinance.

Tells of Changes

"In the two years that have passed, many things have occurred and viewpoints have changed to keep pace with the changing economic world. Collective bargaining through leaders of their own choosing, long denied labor, has now become the order of the day, indorsed by the President of the United States, and approved in principal by all but a recalcitrant minority of the employers," Mrs. Brooks declared.

She charged that although strikers were penalized, no attempt was made to bring to justice the night riders "who broke up peaceful meetings with tear bombs and other weapons."

'Industry Subsidized'

"A fact that must not be lost sight of," said Mrs. Brooks, "is that the government is taking care of these workers between seasons, thus subsidizing the citrus industry to that extent."

Continuance of the law will serve only to widen the breach between growers and employes, and will lead to more serious outbreaks, she predicted.

The speaker said she represented a liberal group whose members include labor, citrus growers, farmers, churchmen and others.

CHECK IDENTITY OF DEAD MAN

FULTON, Mo. (AP) — Missouri highway patrolmen and Gallaway county authorities attempted today to learn more about a man found frozen to death near Kingdom City, Mo., and to check any possible connection with the Mattson kidnaping case.

Sgt. J. G. McCann and Troopers R. G. Bried and C. W. Huston of the highway patrol, who had searched all day following a report of the man's disappearance from a transcontinental bus (Greyhound) Monday night, found his half-clothed body about dark yesterday on ice covering a small stream.

The man, who apparently died of exposure, had been traveling on a ticket issued Jan. 7 at Kelso, Wash. Bus Driver Glenn J. Halsey told federal investigators at Kansas City the man had been acting queerly before he leaped from the bus and disappeared into woods during a stop at Kingdom City.

SEWER LINE'S REPAIR NOW UNDER WAY

Building Trestle Over Break Is First Part Of Tough Job

Repair work on the damaged outfall sewer line, broken when a barge broke loose in a recent storm and crashed into the line, was under way today.

Heavy ocean swells have been holding the work up, but now the heavy pile-driver used to drive piling and pick up the broken sections that lie on the bottom of the ocean, has been moved into place and repair work will proceed.

Building of a 150-foot trestle over the break in the line is the first part of the job. The pipe joints, 12 feet long, weigh three and a half tons each, and it is something of a job to raise them to see if they are damaged too badly to be used again.

Determination of the cost of the repair job will depend somewhat on the condition of the pipe, according to City Engineer J. L. McBride, who is in charge of the work.

McBride pointed out that it is more difficult to do the repair work in the shallow water than in deeper water, because the diver who fastens cables around the pipe cannot stand up in heavy swells close to the shoreline.

HIT-RUN DRIVER BEING SOUGHT

Chief of Police Hodge Hodgkinson at Newport Beach is looking for a "hit-and-run" driver, but he doesn't want to arrest him. The chief merely wants to talk to the driver and have him make a report of an accident Monday night at Newport.

It seems that Mrs. Nell Higley from the Balboa Island Yacht club was walking down a road that leads to the island from Highway 101. It was dark, and she was following the center line in the road. A car bumped her, slightly. The driver took her to the yacht club, but left without making a report to police.

And now Chief Hodgkinson wants to talk to that driver. The law isn't mad at him, but technically he's a hit-and-runner, until he makes a report with police.

glass has gone up several times recently.

In the glass situation, Tway looks for manufacturers and wholesalers to refuse to guarantee delivery. Even now they will not guarantee the price. In the construction industry here, Tway said, the situation has not assumed a prohibitive aspect in regard to building, but may if the situation becomes more acute. There has been no actual interference with construction as yet.

Bean Freight Cost Up

Local merchants handling such items as refrigerators, kitchen ranges, automobiles, etc., have felt the effects of increased transportation charges and slowing up on deliveries, it was reported.

From an agricultural standpoint, the only effect on Orange county seems to have been a slowing up in the movement of beans, one of Orange county's major crops. Orange county bean growers sell heavily along the Atlantic coast, and the differential between hauling by rail and steamer is about 50 cents a hundred pounds. The effect has been for buyers to hold off making purchases, it was stated by agriculturists, who said that the county would be hurt more if the strike happened during a valencia orange shipping period.

Some Costs Double

Several manufacturing concerns reported increased prices because of higher costs of transporting their goods to market, the costs having doubled in instances. Such a situation was reported by the Brock Glass company of Santa Ana, which does business on a national scale.

The Food Machinery corporation, formerly the Paxton Nailing Machine company, has not been affected by the strike to any degree as yet, although the company here now is making some nailing machines for Russia which will have to be exported.

Townsend News, Views

By WALTER R. ROBB

(This is a non-political, non-partisan column, dealing in Townsend news and views, and written by a prominent Townsend leader. Any opinions which are expressed herein are not necessarily those of The Journal.)

Aaron Buchheim, Doheny Park Townsend club president, was a visitor in Santa Ana yesterday on business. The advisory board was scheduled to meet at his home last night to consider club matters. The next meeting of the club will be held in the Doheny Park grammar school on Tuesday evening, Jan. 19. Buchheim has been one of the most energetic of Townsend boosters helping to organize the club and serving as its first temporary president. Later he was elected president.

W. R. ROBB

The many friends of J. H. Walsh, district organizer of the 19th congressional district will regret to learn that he is confined in the hospital with illness. The report is that he is somewhat improved and expects to shortly be up and around. The writer joins with his many Townsend friends in wishing for him quick and complete recovery. Walsh has labored hard and sincerely to promote Townsend plan interests.

Herbert F. Kenny was the speaker before the Anaheim club Monday evening. He reports the pleasure of having installed the following in office after their having been elected as club officers for the next six months: Mrs. H. C. Hunt, who at one time served as the district organizer of Riverside and Orange counties, president; Dr. Harry C. Wilhelm, vice-president; Mrs. F. A. Sager, secretary; Will Hendrickson, treasurer. The advisory board will be elected at a future meeting.

Yesterday the writer saw a letter from Senator Harry C. Westover, written on Jan. 9, and addressed to Herbert F. Kenny, which will be pleasing to the Townsendites. At least the news which it conveyed will be. Senator Westover has been given the chairmanship of the social securities committee. To this committee will be referred all social security legislation, the letter states. The Townsendites played a big part in electing Westover and they will be glad to know that he will be placed favorably to help promote old age security legislation.

Santa Ana Club No. 2 met in regular business session in Townsend hall, Monday evening. Election of chairmen of standing committees and delegates to the Riverside district convention on Jan. 23 were the chief orders of business. Mrs. Ethel Long was elected as the financial secretary; James Short, membership committee chairman; Mrs. Chas. H. Dean, program; Mrs. D. E. Miller, social; and Walter R. Robb, publicity.

The following were selected as delegates and alternates to the convention: E. F. Millard, Roscoe G. Grout, Walter R. Robb, Mrs. Ethel Long, Mrs. Gertrude L. Grout and Mrs. Jessie M. Robb. The club also made plans for holding a supper in Townsend hall on Monday evening, Jan. 25.

Here's some news from Alaska concerning the Townsend movement taken from the latest issue of the Townsend Weekly, which will interest Townsendites and others. "Nothing," writes C. M. Bowman, president of Ketchikan club No. 1, "has so stirred the people of Alaska in favor of the Townsend plan as the activity of the government in the collection of taxes for the social security act. In studying the administration's social security act, they compare it with the Townsend plan and note the difference in every way." President Bowan thinks the Townsend plan simple and plain of understanding while the security act puzzles the lawyers, courts and everybody else. Bowman writes that Alaska casts about 15,000 votes and yet the territory sent the signatures of 8,000 people to Townsend national headquarters on the petitions to congress recently circulated. This club was represented in the Cleveland Townsend convention with one delegate. It was also represented with one delegate in the Chicago convention a year previous. The writer thought for those who do not take the Townsend Weekly this would be an interesting bit of news.

POLICE REPORTS

A bicycle stolen from Robert Franzle of Long Beach may turn up in Santa Ana, it was reported to police yesterday by Mrs. L. C. Franzle, 311 North Main street. It was valued at $30, she said..

A. M. Blanding, 1348 South Main street, reported yesterady that burglars had entered his home by cutting a screen in a store room window and taken a small amount of money.

James Ferris, disabled war veteran, was warned yesterday when he was selling pencils on the street. Ferris said he was attempting to collect enough funds to return to a veterans' hospital, and promised to leave the city.

A 13-year-old Los Angeles boy, reported missing from his home since yesterday morning, was located by officers here after a call from the Santa Fe railroad station told them a boy was loitering around the yards. The boy was held here pending arrival of his parents today to take him home.

City court traffic fines: Speeding—Walden E. Whittemore, $9; Andrew John Strom, $8. Boulevard stop—Abbie Young, $2; H. L. Neff, $2.

LABOR BOARD SOUGHT FOR CALIFORNIA

SACRAMENTO. (AP) — Legislation to set up a state commission, patterned after the federal railway labor board, to arbitrate disputes between growers and agricultural workers will be proposed jointly by farm leaders and the state federation of labor for enactment by the California legislature.

Both the labor group, with Edward Vandeleur, executive secretary of the state federation of labor and Senator Bradford S. Crittenden, representing the growers, have announced programs of legislation they will seek to have enacted.

To Oppose Law

Growers and labor groups will join in seeking establishment of a board to hear and settle farm labor disputes. Mediation would not be compulsory, under their proposals, but, they agree, would be a welcome means for settlement of grower-worker disputes if such an authority existed.

Vandeleur declared labor would oppose any mandatory arbitration law on the ground that it was unconstitutional, but that his federation would be glad to have an authority such as it is to be proposed to settle controversies voluntarily brought before it.

Senator Crittenden stated that huge losses attributable to lobar trouble had been incurred by growers during the past season and expressed the hope some authority might be created to settle future disputes.

Protect Picketing

In addition, labor's program, according to Vandeleur, will embrace the following proposals:

New laws to safeguard the principle of collective bargaining.

Safeguards of the right of peaceful picketing and a guarantee against the wrongful use of injunctions in labor disputes.

Action to curb the unlawful activities of vigilante groups.

To limit the use of gas bombs by authorities participating in labor disputes.

Abolish Sales Tax

To permit employes engaged on public works projects who are not paid "prevailing wages" as established by law to sue and recover.

To amend the California workers' compensation act by broadening its provisions to meet present day conditions.

To provide labor representation on the state personnel board, civil service commission and other state boards and commissions.

To abolish the state sales tax.

RIVERSIDE CHAMPS PLAY DON CAGERS HERE

Grid Upsets to Increase, Says Jones; Poly Trims Saints in Overtime, 25-24

SPORTS WHEEL GOES 'ROUND 'N ROUND

Congratulations, Elks. Give us more of the athletic programs of the variety presented to Orange county's sportsmen last night!

Things this department didn't know until it attended the B. P. O. E.'s gala event:

Tom Lieb, the Loyola coach, refers to ice hockey as "legal mayhem."

Howard Jones, the Trojan headman, would rather play football games away from home than in the Coliseum.

Ernie Johnson, scout for the Boston Red Sox, travelled 37,000 miles in four months' search for baseball ivory last year.

Other highlights of the Elks' program can be found in adjoining columns.

* * *

Flaming-haired Dick Zehms, who pounds a typewriter for the Long Beach Press-Telegram, does not string with this department's prediction Long Beach Poly will win the Coast league basketball title.

It will be Alhambra, sez he.

Mebbe Zehms is right at that. The Moors have retained their six-foot-seven center, Jack Stetson, and their high-scoring forward, Jack Barron.

* * *

And speaking of basketball, do you know just how close competition has been between the U. S. C. and California fives which resume play at Pan-Pacific auditorium in Los Angeles Friday and Saturday nights?

* * *

The Trojans have won 26 games to the Bears' 25! Credit Justin (Sam) Barry for U. S. C.'s slight edge, because the Trojans haven't lost a series to California since Barry took over the reigns in '30. Court rivalry began in '21.

* * *

Remember Dick David, the Long Beach Poly sensation? He is a reserve forward for California, so one can imagine what kind of club Coach Nibs Price will floor this season. The Bears drew a bye last week while U. S. C. drubbed U. C. L. A., 41 to 31.

* * *

The Pittsburgh Pirates, Shortstop Floyd (Arky) Vaughan of Fullerton included, will open spring training in San Bernardino March 8 . . . Pitchers, catchers, trainers and coaches will be the first to report to Manager Pie Traynor . . . The Pirates will limber up at Perris Hill park . . . They will have approximately 10 days in which to prepare for a series March 24 with the Chicago White Sox at the San Bernardino park.

* * *

End Earl Gieseke and Tackle Ben Hammerschmidt, who won first and second Eastern all-conference recognition at Riverside J. C., will report to the former Santa Ana coach, G. A. (Tex) Oliver, at the University of Arizona either next month or in September. Both are prized catches.

GARCIA FLOORS NEGRO RIVAL

STOCKTON. (AP)—Ceferino Garcia, Filipino welterweight, knocked out Otto Blackwell, Portland, Ore., negro, in the first round of their 10-round match here last night.

Garcia, ranked by the New York Athletic Commission as No. 1 challenger for Barney Ross' welterweight crown, landed three solid punches to flatten his opponent in 45 seconds.

ELK PROGRAM ENTERTAINS 400 FANS

Spaulding, Lieb, Johnson And U.S.C. Coach Give Advice to Athletes

By PAUL WRIGHT

"There will be more and more upsets in football because colleges are developing better teams and arranging stiffer schedules."—Howard Jones, U. S. C. coach.

Ernie Johnson

"Boys, develop the right kind of disposition and show your boss you have determination and a spirit of cooperation, and you can't lose in life."—Ernie Johnson, veteral baseball scout of the Boston Red Sox.

"Football is a great game which has indirectly equipped many boys with a better chance in life because most of them are forced to study hard in order to be eligible.—Bill Spaulding, U. C. L. A. coach.

"Give credit where credit is due. Upsets will always happen, but a victorious team deserves the credit."—Tom Lieb, Loyola coach.

This was the gist of talks by four prominent sports figures at the Santa Ana Elks' third annual athletic program honoring Orange county athletes at the B. P. O. E. hall last night.

The well-rounded program, featuring six acts of professional vaudeville as well as some splendid talks and introductions, found an appreciative audience of 400 in the Santa Ana lodge rooms. Ralph (Bill) Cole, Tustin High school coach, was program chairman.

Publicity Is Problem

Spaulding, the first speaker, lauded football as wholesome entertainment for the fans and a character-builder for the athletes, while his assistant, Cliff Simpson, paid tribute to Santa Ana Junior college's Southern California champions, and remarked he would "be sure the Dons gained a place on the Bruin frosh's schedule next fall."

Newspaper publicity, Jones said, is one of the greatest problems confronting a coach today. When he gets his team to a certain peak, the scribes are inclined to praise where praise is due, and as a result a team becomes over-confident and is upset. Newspaper criticism also fires the opposition to a fighting pitch, and creates the kind of psychology which leads to upsets. Jones recalled when Oregon, riled by newspaper reports discounting the ability of the Webfeet, ordered a U. S. C. student-manager from the Coliseum dressing-rooms one year. The feeling was bitter toward the university as well as the newshawks, he said.

"I cannot believe that the Washington team that defeated the Trojans and U. C. L. A. was as weak as it looked against Pittsburgh in the Rose Bowl," Jones remarked. "Pitt, with fast backs and a well-distributed line, was under-rated, but the Huskies were better then they appeared that day." Jones indicated a running attack, as executed by Pittsburgh, is a better base for an offense than forward and lateral passes, because passes can miss fire.

Comedy in Talks

Comedy was added to the speaking program by Newell (Jeff) Cravath, Trojan assistant; Cliff Simpson, U. C. L. A. assistant; Loyola's Lieb, baseball's Johnson and Chairman Cole, who related humorous incidents which happened on and off the gridiron. Lieb's talk was long and well received.

Honored guests were members of Santa Ana Junior college's championship football squad, which was introduced by Coaches Bill Cook and Blanchard Beatty, and the coaches and captains of all Orange county prep schools. Coach W. W. (Bill) Foote and his Santa Ana High school varsity attended in a body.

Refreshments were served under the direction of W. K. Duffy, Elks' chef.

TANFORAN RACE DATES FIXED

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP) — The $10,000 Marchbank handicap on April 17 will highlight the spring meeting at Tanforan beginning March 13.

Seven other stake races have been carded, including the $5000 Exposition handicap on April 19; the $2500 Woodside handicap March 27, and the $3000 3-year-old championship April 3.

Members of the 1936 Indiana university football team used 13½ miles of tape during the grid season.

TUSTIN FIVES SCORE TWO VICTORIES

Garden Grove High school's Class A and B basketball machines could not cope with Tustin's cagers yesterday, and returned home with a double defeat from the Tillers.

Coach Ralph (Bill) Cole's Tustin varsity, outstanding favorite for minor division honors, breezed to an unusual 27-2 victory over the Argonauts, while the Garden Grove Bees, putting up a stiffer battle, nevertheless fell by a score of 35 to 21.

The teams are warming up for the second round of Orange County Prep league play Friday night, with the following games scheduled: Major division — Newport Harbor at Anaheim, Orange at Huntington Beach. Minor division —Laguna Beach at Tustin, San Juan Capistrano at Brea-Olinda.

Wuxtry! Bleacher Prices in Coast League 25 Cents!

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Bleacher fans of the Pacific Coast league may rejoice. They can see a baseball game this year for 25 cents.

Directors of the league voted the "two-bit" price, a reduction of 15 cents from last year, in a meeting here yesterday.

The Shaughnessy play-off system was likewise approved, providing for the four leading clubs at the end of the season to battle it out for the championship and a purse of $10,000.

SCOTT CAGERS ANNEX, 52-14

With 20 points, Santa Ana Jaysee's basketball coach, Blanchard Beatty, paced Scottie's Malt shop to an easy 52-14 victory over Southern Counties' Gas at the "Y" last night.

Games tonight feature Penhall's Service of Westminster vs. Wilson's Service of Santa Ana at 7:30, and the Majestic Malts vs. Laguna Beach at 8:30.

MATZEN FIVE HUMBLED AT REDLANDS

Preparatory to launching their Los Angeles Basketball league schedule against Clifton's cafeteria contingent in the high school gym tomorrow night, Santa Ana's Woolen Mills five dropped a 30-23 game to Redlands' college varsity on the latter's floor last night.

Fred Wiemer, towering center, led the Santa Ana scoring parade with 10 points, and Quentin Matzen's weavers outpointed the collegians 18-13 in the second half. However, Redlands' 12-point advantage in the first 20 minutes, 17 to 5, proved too much to blot out.

The Woolen Mills' cagers have come through a fine warmup schedule, and are conceded a strong chance tomorrow night against Clifton's crack melontossers, who have lost only three games in the past two seasons.

BROOKLYN BUYS BALL FARM

Chain System Is Spreading

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK. (AP)—Acting on the theory that "if the Cardinals did it, why shouldn't we," major league clubs east of the Alleghenies aren't letting any grass grow under them in building up farm systems in the bushes.

Along with the Giants' recent purchase of a Class AA outfit to lay the groundwork for a chain gang, and the disclosure that the Boston Red Sox will have shares in eight clubs this season, the lowly Brooklyn Dodgers came up today with a surprise announcement of a hookup to include eight minor league teams for 1937.

Make Many Connections

This big time departure of the Dodgers into the agricultural side of the game may include every sort of material from the highly-regarded Class AA American association down through Class D. Still pending, however, are negotiations for some sort of working agreement in the association.

Much of the system will be operated through Brooklyn's Class A Allentown farm in the New York-Pennsylvania league. Through this affiliation, the Dodgers will have the pick of any player in Clinton of the Three-Eye league (Class B), and Reidsville, N. C., of the Bi-State league, Beatrice of the Nebraska State loop, and Cordele of the Georgia-Florida circuit, all Class D.

These are the newcomers to the Dodger chain, which has been expanded in only two years from an original two-club lineup. Holdover agreements include those with Knoxville of the Southern association and Dayton of the Class C mid-Atlantic.

The Red Sox's wide-spread organization, too, stretches all the way from Double-A Minneapolis to a pair of Class D outfits in Danville of the Bi-State and Moultrie of the Georgia-Florida circuit. In between are such others as Little Rock of the Southern association; Hazelton, New York-Penn; Rocky Mount, Piedmont league; Canton, mid-Atlantic and Clarksdale, cotton states.

Giants Fall in Line

The Giants, finally now falling in step with the march of baseball time, are getting ready to do the thing up brown. With the Jersey city International league club already in line, along with Gulfport, Miss., the National league champions are shopping around for more of the same. This week they came to an agreement with Blytheville of the Class D Northwest Arkansas loop.

Their World Series victors, the New York Yankees, have been in the business for some time, and have found it highly profitable. Two of their best sources of supply are the Newark (International league) Bears, and the Binghampton (New York-Penn) triplets.

Both the Philadelphia big league members have seen the light. Connie Mack has several sources of material for his Athletics; the Phillies have working agreements which already have paid dividends.

The Boston Bees now own two club outfits. Even "Old Fox" Clark Griffith has found that working agreements have returned products worth while for his Washington Senators.

GREENE PREPS IMPROVING; BEES LOSE

Long Beach Forced Into Extra Periods Before Holding Coast Lead

Long Beach Poly was still among the unbeaten leaders of Coast Preparatory league basketball today, but only after a 25-24 victory over Santa Ana's inspired Saints in a surprising exhibition that went into a pair of overtime periods at Long Beach last night.

Coach Joe Koegler's Class Bees, who were being counted on for a possible upset, failed miserably under too much boy-power of Poly's lightweights, 28 to 12, in the preliminary.

Saints Annex Lead

The nightcap was a wild affair which could be called a "moral" victory for Coach Reece Greene's Saints who were tabbed to lose by 12 or 15 points. Santa Ana had Coach Charley Church's host quintet one up, 20-19, going into the last few seconds of play when a foul was called on Capt. Sam Lockhart. Banks, forward, rang up the precious point, and the teams were deadlocked as regular playing time ended.

Lockhart came through with a field goal to swing the lead to Santa Ana, 22-20, but committed another foul which awarded the Jackrabbits two free throws. A howl went up from the Saints, who thought Center Riggen was entitled to only one throw. He made 'em both as the first overtime stanza ended, 22-22. Joe Kadowaki, Japanese, who rolled up six points in a reserve role, sank his last two counters at an opportune time, and the elated Saints took another lead, 24-22. But Poly sank a charity toss, and followed with a field goal by Capt. Leonard to sew up the game, 25-24.

Bottle Up Parrish

Nothing short of amazing was the Saints' feat in limiting Lonnie Parrish, Long Beach's rampaging forward, to a scant two points. Parrish scored 24 in sinking San Diego. Lockhart, star of the Saints' loss to San Diego's Hillers, 37-16 last week, again proved the shining light with nine points. Lanky Milton Smith scored six at center.

Koegler's Bees apparently folded up against Long Beach Poly's string of substitutes, because the Saintlets put up a whale of a battle in extending San Diego's Hillers, 23-25, here. O'Neil and Allen were the high scorers with 4 and 3 points.

Class A and B teams of Santa Ana travel to Alhambra for a double bill Friday night.

MONEY ANGLE TO BOYCOTT OF FIGHT

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Samuel Untermyer of New York, president of the non-sectarian anti-Nazi league, declared today the organization was boycotting the proposed Max Schmeling-Jimmy Braddock heavyweight bout because "Schmeling would take his share of the money back to Germany."

"We are not boycotting the fight itself," said Untermyer, "but we do not believe it is right for anyone from that country to take American money back to Germany."

Untermyer, who is also president of the non-sectarian anti-Nazi world council, is spending the winter here.

"We don't want to interfere with the fight itself if the money stays here. We don't want the money, but we don't want it sent to Germany," he said.

"If some means can be worked out for him (Schmeling) to get the money and spend it here, it is all right with us for the fight to go on. Germany won't allow any of its money to leave the country, why should we?"

JAYSEE FIVES OPEN GRIND TONIGHT

Pomona Tests Fullerton And Chaffey Journeys To San Bernardino

Predictions the Eastern J. C. basketball schedule will present a three-cornered race this season will be placed on the testing block tonight.

Santa Ana's Dons, starting with a new coach, Blanchard Beatty, will test Riverside's defending champion Bengals in Andrews gymnasium at the high school at 7:30 o'clock. Week-end games have been billed for 8 o'clock, but the mid-week encounters will be played a half-hour earlier to make it easier on traveling teams.

Dons Seeking Upset

Beatty, who returned from Oceanside High last year to replace Alvin Reboin at the helm of the Dons, finds his 1937 collection counted out of pre-season ratings, while observers predict a regular "dog-fight" among Fullerton, Riverside and San Bernardino. The Dons, however, realize championships are won on the floor and not on paper, and will be out gunning for an upset over Riverside tonight. They battle Fullerton's great quintet here Friday night.

The Dons, whose championships come in football and once in a while in baseball and tennis, have yet to win a basketball title in the Eastern conference. It was Chaffey in 1931 and '32, Fullerton in '33, Chaffey again in '34, Fullerton in '35 and Riverside in '36.

Reports to the contrary, Beatty plans to start his usual combination of Kenneth Nissley and Harry Stanley at forward, Bob Browning at center, Erwin Youel and Ken Marshall at guard, although several different quintets may be on the floor. Bob Faul, the ex-Orange star, has shown improvement, and Harold Eastham's height can be used to advantage against the invaders. Clarence (Tay) Riggs, John Jennison, Don Randall, Dick Dyke and Eldon Richards are other reserves in line for duty.

Count on Freshmen

Freshman talent has replaced graduation losses for Riverside's defending champions, who boast a fast-stepping forward in Vic Muhonen, who has averaged 10 points per practice game, and two other highly-touted frosh in George Dole and Frank Wells. Veterans Stuart Caldwell, guard, and Jack Van Epps, forward, round out the first-string, as developed by New-Coach Harry Griffith.

The conference schedule:

Tonight—Riverside at Santa Ana, Chaffey at San Bernardino, Pomona at Fullerton, Citrus bye.

Jan. 15—Fullerton at Santa Ana.

Jan. 16—Riverside at Chaffey, Citrus at Pomona, San Bernardino bye.

LEE DECISIONS OLDER GRACE

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Glen Lee, new "Nebraska Wildcat," punched out a 10-round decision over Meyer Grace, battle-scarred ring veteran, at the Olympic auditorium last night.

The 151-pound Nebraskan, with youth on his side, badly outpointed Grace, who has been fighting 1½ years, in the last five rounds.

A series of hard rights had Grace on the ropes as the bout ended. He weighed 152.

Butch Rogers, Los Angeles ex-soldier, lost a close six-round match to Russ Wasser, Minneapolis heavyweight.

GAS CONCERN PLANS 1937 CAMPAIGN

Planning an extensive newspaper advertising campaign on Mobilgas and Mobiloil for 1937 was among principal objects of a four-day conference just held at the Los Angeles home office of Smith & Drum, inc., Pacific coast advertising agency, says information received by H. V. Low, Santa Ana branch manager for General Petroleum corporation.

The meeting was attended by executives and field representatives working on the General Petroleum advertising account, including managers of Smith & Drum branch offices as follows: W. W. Drum, San Francisco; George McMurphy, Portland; Arthur Poolton, Seattle. Conference with executives of the agency's principal client, and visits to some of the large, modern refineries, natural gasoline plants and oil producing fields of General Petroleum corporation were embraced within the scope of the sessions.

"It is of interest to the public and to newspapers," declared Low, "that 1936 was the outstanding sales and business development year in the history of our major oil company, and that business gains were closely allied to the volume of advertising placed with newspapers, including The Santa Ana Journal. Thus, the figures read at the conference revealed a strong argument in favor of advertising comparable to the volume of business anticipated and achieved."

Highlight of the meeting was the analysis of 1936 features of the general campaign as compared with achievements, and the discussion of policies and objects of the 1937 campaign soon to be released. This presentation was made by W. B. Curtis, sales promotion manager of General Petroleum corporation.

WESTERN FILM AT THE STATE

Featuring Dick Foran, "California Mail" will head the rest-of-the-week bill at the State theater. "California Mail" is the story of a pony express rider who battles Indians and white highway robbers to deliver the government mail.

There is a romance, too, and the girl he loves also is loved by the keeper of a general trading station whom the pony express rider later discovers is in league with the stage coach bandits.

In the cast with Foran are Linda Perry, Ed Cobb, Milton Kibbee, Tom Brower, James Farley, Ben Hendricks, Wilfred Lucas and others.

Also on the bill is a Bert Lahr comedy, "Boy, Oh, Boy"; a Popeye cartoon, "Let's Get Movin'"; chapter No. 13 of "Custer's Last Stand," and a newsreel.

Kansas First Lady Turns to Farm

TOPEKA. (AP)—Once again "just a plain citizen" of the prairie state from which her husband rose to bid for the nation's highest honor, Mrs. Alf M. Landon turned her thoughts happily today toward a new adventure—life on a farm.

Announcing the purchase of a 160-acre suburban place, Mrs. Landon expressed a zest for the first taste of rural life. She confessed it would be a welcome change from the "strenuous months" during which former Governor Landon campaigned as Republican presidential nominee and she was first lady of the Kansas executive mansion.

"We're going to keep a cow and some chickens," she declared. "It's going to be fun living out there."

NEW RECORD IS CHRYSLER'S

DETROIT. (AP)—Chrysler corporation produced last week its millionth unit this year, a record for the automobile company.

As officials watched the unit, a Plymouth car, roll off the assembly line, Walter P. Chrysler, chairman of the board, commented, "twenty years ago it took the production of 300 automobile companies to make a million cars and trucks in one year."

The company's largest previous annual production was 843,599 units in 1935.

CITRUS MEN TO HEAR RAMSEY

Citrus growers of Orange county have been invited to hear H. J. Ramsey, field manager of the California Fruit Growers exchange, discuss grading and standardization of citrus tonight at a meeting of the Orange County Agricultural Inspectors association

Ramsey will speak at 7:30 p. m. in the Anaheim city hall, T. E. McLeod, president of the association, announced. Although the talk has been planned for some time, the freeze makes it particularly timely, McLeod said.

Agricultural Commissioner D. W. Tubbs is expected to report on the problem of handling fruit which shows frost in excess of the state tolerance.

The principal exports of Guam are copra and coconut oil.

U. S. OFFERS REWARD FOR 5TH TIME

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Attorney General Cummings said today the $10,000 offered by the government it the Mattson kidnap case became the fifth federal reward posted since congress authorized such offers in June, 1934.

Previous rewards: John Dillinger, capture, $10,000, information leading to his arrest, $5000; "Baby Face" Nelson, capture, $5000, information leading to arrest, $2000; Alvin Karpis, information, $5000; Harry Campbell, information, $2500.

Justice department officials said that since they offered the $5000 for capture of "Baby Face" Nelson, they have put up rewards only for information leading to arrests. They did this, they said, to encourage amateur detectives, criminals and others to turn information over to federal agents rather than attempt to make captures themselves.

HONOR SAFETY PIONEER

The man who originated and carried into execution the center traffic line now in almost universal use on highways (originally the white center stripe) has been discovered and honor paid to him for his contribution to motoring safety, according to H. L. Bown, manager of Goodrich Silvertown store at 101 North Broadway, Santa Ana.

He is Edward N. Hines, originator of the center traffic line, who was presented a plaque in honor of his achievement by J. D. Tew, president of the B. F. Goodrich company, which conducted a long search throughout the country for the originator of the idea.

The presentation was made at the recent annual meeting of the American Automobile association.

FORD HAS FULL TRUCK LINE

Introduction of the new 60 horsepower V-8 engine to supplement the regular 85 horsepower engine gives the Ford Motor Company the most competent line of trucks and commercial cars in its history.

Certain types of light city delivery business firms and farmers especially will profit from use of the new light motor, according to George Dunton, local dealer. He said operating expenses in some cases will be reduced as much as 25 per cent.

The light motor is available in all models except the one-and-a-half ton dump truck on 131-inch chassis.

Actress Will Be Married Saturday

LOS ANGELES. (AP) — Rene Torres, actress sister of Raquel Torres of the screen, will be married to Erman Pessis, studio publicity executive, on Saturday.

The 25-year-old prospective bridegroom said they had intended to fly to Yuma, Ariz., for the ceremony, but current bad weather discouraged them from leaving the ground.

Semi-solid buttermilk is manufactured as a hog and poultry feed.

Erosion Committee Being Formed

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Formation of a committee to provide funds for protecting beaches against erosion and floods was under way today as a result of a conference of members of the board of supervisors and officials of ocean front cities.

The committee, which would broaden the scope of the county flood control act to provide for expenditures for surveys of beach erosion and construction of beach flood protection works, will be headed by Alfred Jones, county surveyor, and will include County Counsel Everett Mattoon, H. C. Newell, chief engineer of the county flood control district, and representatives appointed by mayors of beach cities.

CRUISING GEAR WINS FAVOR

Used car buyers are now looking for cars equipped with cruising gears and are willing to pay higher prices for them than for cars without the feature, according to R. W. Townsend, local Nash and LaFayette dealer.

This was discovered, he said, in a nation-wide survey among Nash and LaFayette dealers.

"This bears out the contention of Nash salesmen that the purchaser of a car with cruising gear can expect to get back more than his gear investment either through longer life of the car or better allowance when he trades it in," said Townsend.

"Essentially," he explained, "the cruising gear provides an extra high gear ratio, engaging automatically when the car reaches a speed above 42 miles an hour. The engine then runs 30 per cent slower to produce a given car speed. This saves from 15 to 25 per cent in gasoline consumption and reduces wear and tear."

SECOND FARM TOUR TO BE JAN. 22

Because of so many requests for another farm tour to the citrus experiment station coming from those who were not able to attend the December tour, Farm Advisor Harold E. Wahlberg has just announced Friday, Jan. 22, as the date. The same program as provided in December will be offered, namely a half-day inspection trip through the experimental orchards and a half-day to reports by various members of the staff. In the orchard the results of a 10-year fertilizer program of various treatments on oranges will be shown. Mottle leaf treatment plots on citrus will also be examined as well as rootstock experiments on oranges and lemons.

Dr. L. D. Batchelor, director of the experiment station, will review the scope of projects and experiments under way at the station, including citrus, walnuts, avocados and other crops of Southern California. A progress report on the cause of granulation of valencia oranges will be presented by Dr. E. T. Bartholomew; better bud selection by R. E. Caryl; the value of field soil analysis by Dr. H. D. Chapman; analysis of Colorado river water for irrigation purposes by Dr. W. P. Kelley.

Anyone interested in citrus, walnut or avocado production problems is invited to bring his basket lunch and attend the tour. Growers will assemble their cars at two points in Orange county at 8:30 a. m. They are Olive—at the citrus packing houses, and Placentia at the Santa Fe depot yards.

Over 200 Orange county growers attended the December tour.

THORN in the FLESH

By GLENN L. THORNE

Sad news is announced today for those who have enjoyed Thorn in the Flesh as a daily feature, and glad tidings for those who haven't.

This daily effort which had its beginning a year ago as the Sidewalk Spectator today announces a new schedule.

Trains run on different schedules. There are dailys. Then there are daily except Sunday—that's the schedule I've been on. Then there's the tri-weekly. Go someplace one week and "try" to get back the next. I've accused myself of that sometimes.

But after today, Thorn in the Flesh hibernates daily except Saturday. Meaning that henceforth this feature will be for Saturday only—to be found on the church page.

The Journal's policy is to give the public what it enjoys most in the way of desirable features, ever striving for a better paper, which accounts for this change. Much favorable comment has been received from the religious angles presented by Thorn in the Flesh. So much so, that henceforth, unless by a tremendous "recall" vote, these efforts will be concentrated on The Journal's church page each Saturday.

Our daily visits have been enjoyed. Never at any time have we meant to be a real "thorn" in the flesh of anyone (couldn't help it for being a twig on the Thorne family tree). If at any time it sounded that way it was because of a blunder of my weak mind, which no one realizes it is anymore than I myself.

And so I'll be seeing you henceforth Saturdays on the church page, where additional space will be available for the important religious phase of our natures within a couple of weeks.

Toodle-oo-oo—And I'm awfully glad you could meet me,

GLENN L. THORNE,
"Thorn in the Flesh."

AIR-COOLED CARS NOT REMOTE

DETROIT, Mich. — Air conditioned automobiles are not so remote as many persons believe, E. S. Evans, internationally known manufacturer, said in an interview here. He sees in this development the most important contribution to motoring comfort in the past decade.

Evans said that in his opinion the installation of such a unit in passenger cars, trucks and buses would be priced within the reach of all and that air conditioned vehicles will be regarded as a necessity rather than a luxury.

"The forerunner of air conditioned motor vehicles is the modern intake and exhaust ventilating system for passenger cars," Evans declared. "We have had ventilating units for truck cabs and buses for some few years, and it is my opinion that the general public is in a highly receptive mood for passenger car ventilation that will provide absolute comfort for driver and passengers in inclement weather when all windows must be kept closed."

In support of this statement, disinterested observers at the recent major automobile shows where intake and exhaust ventilating systems were demonstrated, report that thousands of motorists expressed approval of this progressive development.

It was also apparent, these observers said, that the public as a whole is thoroughly conscious of the need for actual car ventilation that will provide utmost comfort regardless of weather conditions.

NEW EASY-ACTION SAFETY BRAKES

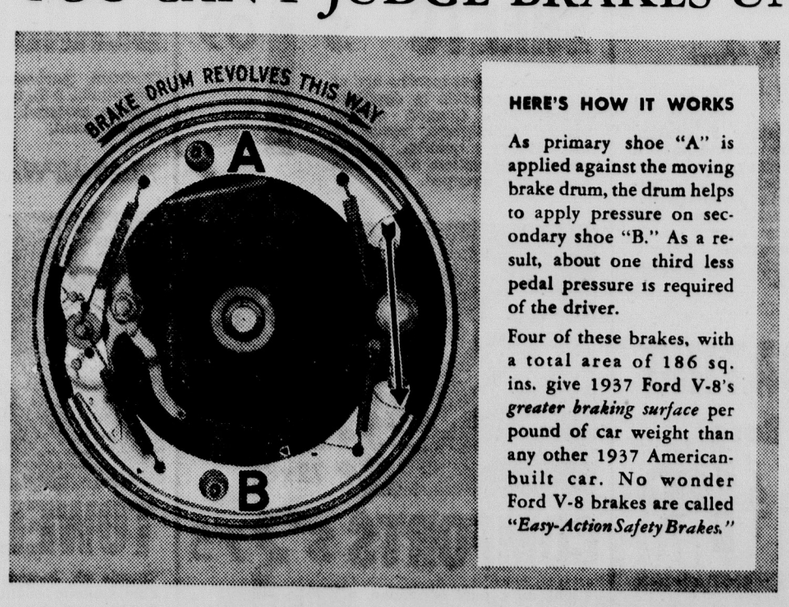

They offer the following advantages:

1 Self-Energizing Operation . . . gives greater stopping power . . . with easier, softer operation of the brake pedal.

2 Cable-and-conduit Control . . . gives sure, all-weather operation of brakes—the safety of steel from pedal to wheel.

3 Big 12-inch Rib-cooled Drums . . . give extra large braking surface per pound of car weight, and long life for brake linings.

YOU CAN'T JUDGE BRAKES UNTIL YOU DRIVE

HERE'S HOW IT WORKS

As primary shoe "A" is applied against the moving brake drum, the drum helps to apply pressure on secondary shoe "B." As a result, about one third less pedal pressure is required of the driver.

Four of these brakes, with a total area of 186 sq. ins. give 1937 Ford V-8's greater braking surface per pound of car weight than any other 1937 American-built car. No wonder Ford V-8 brakes are called "Easy-Action Safety Brakes."

SOUTHLAND FIRE CHIEFS HOLD CONVENTION HERE SATURDAY

JAY STEVENS TO BE GUEST OF HONOR

Program of Addresses Is Announced by Luxembourger

Many phases of fire prevention work will be discussed at the twenty-first semi-annual convention of the Southern California Fire Chiefs association here next Saturday.

Chief John Luxembourger of Santa Ana fire department, who will be in charge of the program, announced the list of speakers who will address the group at the convention in Santa Ana.

Stevens Honored Guest

Jay W. Stevens, California state fire marshal, who also is secretary of the Pacific Coast Fire Marshals' association, will be one of the honored guests at the convention.

His assistant, Frank Scovel, will talk on the subject, "Home Dry Cleaning." H. C. Carel, of Redondo Beach, will discuss "Treatment of Burns." Another speaker will be David H. Merrill, secretary-manager of the Pacific Coast Uniform Building Code. Herbert Ufer, of the National Board of Fire Underwriters laboratory, will speak. J. C. Beswick, of the state department of vocational guidance, will be on the speaking program.

Meet at City Hall

Headquarters for the convention will be in the council chambers of the city hall. Election of officers will be one of the business matters to be taken up. Chief Henry Douglas of Huntington Park, now is president of the Southern California group.

The convention banquet will be held at 6:30 p. m. Saturday in the American Legion hall. Dancing will be enjoyed following the dinner.

More than 150 fire chiefs and associate members of the association are expected to attend the convention.

BRITISH HONOR NOTED SINGER

Selected by the English speaking Union as its delegate to the Silver Jubilee of the late King George V. Rose Bampton, distinguished mezzo-soprano, who will be heard at the Santa Ana High school on the evening of Jan. 22, was feted throughout England during her sojourn there. As the guest of Lady Astor and other members of Great Britain's royalty, Miss Bampton achieved a social success as great as her musical triumph which resulted in a request by the British Broadcasting corporation for a series of radio programs.

Miss Bampton bade her Metropolitan debut in the role of Laura in "La Gioconda" in November, 1932, following which the critics unanimously agreed that her voice was one of great operatic dimensions. Miss Bampton has appeared as guest soloist with the Cleveland Symphony orchestra and the Philadelphia orchestra under the direction of Stokowski, singing the role of Kundry in their concert cycle of "Parsifal."

Tickets for Miss Bampton's concert are now on sale at the Santa Ana Book Store, 208 West Fourth street, telephone 70.

Grand Jury Hears Supervisors

Proceedings of the board of supervisors yesterday were interrupted for two hours while its members testified before the grand jury.

Summoned in a body, the supervisors were called upon, it was understood, to report to the jury anything they believed needed attention.

The grand jury, it was indicated afterward, has virtually completed its work for the year, and will submit a report as soon as auditors who have examined county books finish financial data.

JAYSEE WOMEN NAME OFFICERS

Nominations for officers for the second semester of the Associated Women's students at Santa Ana Junior college were made at a meeting of women students yesterday.

A total of seven women were named for the three offices—president, vice president and secretary-treasurer. Primary election will be conducted Wednesday, Jan. 20, according to Frances Was, president.

Those nominated were Llewelyn Allen, Polly Ange and Henrietta Rurup for president; Virginia Sheppard and Ann Borchard for vice president, and Ann Wetherall and Jean Mulbar for secretary-treasurer.

Retiring officers of the first semester are Frances Was, president; Gerrie Griffith, vice president, and Genevieve Eustis, secretary-treasurer. Mrs. Eleanor Northcross, dean of women, is adviser.

WEST'S POLICY PLAN VETOED

State Senator Harry C. Westover's bill to abolish publication of delinquent tax lists in newspapers today had gained the public indorsement of Supervisor N. E. West, Laguna Beach.

West brought the bill to the attention of other supervisors yesterday, stating that the publication costs about $6000 per year. Westover proposes posting three copies in public places instead of publishing.

Chairman Willard Smith said that while there is some question of the value of publishing the list, banks and loan institutions require copies, and many individuals like to check to see that their own property is clear.

Immediate Pay Plan Authorized

Employes of the Orange county flood control district who quit in mid-month may get their pay immediately without waiting for the regular monthly pay day, the board of supervisors decided yesterday.

A similar provision was adopted several months ago for county employes.

FARM UNIONS OPPOSED BY A. F. O. C.

County Agricultural Men Hit Plan to Organize Rural Laborers

Organized labor in Orange county has more to lose by forcing unionism on farmers and their packing associations than they have to gain, in the opinion of the Associated Farmers of Orange County, Inc.

A public statement released today by the farmers' group hit directly at the proposal to organize citrus workers in the field and packing houses, an article on which new activity was printed by The Journal two weeks ago. The statement said:

It is with considerable interest that the citrus growers of Orange county learn of the allegedly admitted program of the Orange county Central Labor Council for organization of citrus packing house and field workers in Orange county. The reasons stated for this organization activity are "to combat radicalism and prevent disturbances such as tied up the industry last year."

Better Understanding

The organizers could have learned much from the growers about labor organizations in agriculture before they started their organizing if they had but gone to them with their proposal. A better understanding of the farmers' problems and of radical and strike activities in agriculture could have been arrived at as well as much better personal feelings.

The California state federation of labor made a member of the Window Washers union and a member of the Miscellaneous Workers union of San Francisco organizers for agriculture unions in California.

This head organizer admitted he knew nothing about agriculture, even a carpenter should stick to his trade and his organization for such steps as taken do not seem to us to show a very intelligent approach to the problem.

For the benefit of our well intentioned benefactors let us say that the history of organizing agricultural labor in California has shown just the opposite results from which they express a desire to accomplish. In the first place we knew no agricultural strikes in Orange county nor in California until these workers became organized into unions. In the second place the history of these unions to date has been that they have, if not from the beginning then eventually, fallen into the control of the radicals. The real leadership of the American Federation of Labor has never believed it desirable to organize farm labor.

Farm Unions

The exemption from the provisions of labor sponsored legislation such as the labor provisions of the NRA, the Wagner act and the social security act has clearly defined the attitude of organized labor and the government towards farm labor. They have long realized that the perishable nature of the basic food commodities of the farmer, the uncontrollable natural elements of production such as frost, rain, sun, wind, drought, flood, pests, etc., and the periodical and migratory nature, as well as the rapidly changing source and supply of agricultural labor are main factors mitigating against organizing them.

Such farm labor unions as the Agriculture Workers union and the Fruit and Vegetable Workers union both formed with American Federation of Labor charters fell under control of the radicals. The recent Salinas strike of the American Federation of Labor chartered Fruit and Vegetable Workers union showed the spectacle of a communist organizer and member bragging of their radical control of the union and strike.

Working Agreement

We believe that our friends and neighbors who belong to the various craft unions in Orange county will be interested to learn that the entire farm labor organization program intended to tie up perishable commodities was originated and is being continued by communists. This program is an anti-craft union movement and is strictly industrial unionism. Furthermore that the present program of organization was introduced into this county by an active communist organizer who came into this county late last summer for that specific purpose. This organizer led many workers to believe they were joining a club known as the Citrus Workers club, a social organization.

This communist continued his activities and has held meetings with this former club now a union, in your labor hall. President Shevling and Secretary Doss of the former Salinas union were also there during the middle of December. The Salinas union no longer has a working agreement with the employers there, however, we are informed they would have, had they conducted themselves free from radical control and with even a semblance of consideration for their employers.

Not Too Late

We believe that organized labor of Orange county has more to lose by forcing unionism on farmers and their packing associations than they have to gain. We do not believe they wish to injure their friends, the farmers who furnish directly and indirectly a major portion of the county's income.

We believe that a majority of the union members of Orange county have not been properly informed of the organization activities in agriculture carried on under their name for some time. We would like to know just how the organizer proposes to carry on his work and what assurance we may have that he has discovered a method of organizing all agricultural labor in such a way that he can guarantee us that there will be neither radicalism nor strikes. We have followed these activities in this county since their very beginning but we believe that it is not too late to sit down and talk our problems over in a friendly and intelligent manner.

Rotarians Hear Plant Disease Talk By Hewitt

Battle of the agricultural commissioner's office against plant diseases was explained yesterday by Deputy County Commissioner J. Lee Hewitt to fellow Rotarians at their Tuesday luncheon at the Masonic temple.

Quarantine, pest control and standardization are the three main points of the program, he said, which saves millions of dollars yearly for California agriculture.

The speaker was introduced by Program Chairman Ed McFadden.

AWARDS WILL GO TO 4-H MEMBERS

Seventeen members of 4-H clubs in Orange county will soon receive cash awards and ribbons for winning entries exhibited at the San Diego County fair. Checks totaling $188.70 have been received by Ross E. Crane, assistant farm advisor, and will be mailed to the winners. In addition to the cash awards, members received a total of 33 first ribbons, 11 seconds, four third and four fourth.

Those receiving the awards are Bob Cole and William Stocks of Buena Park; Jim Launer of La Habra; Joe Lieb, Evelyn Truxler, John Hastings and Gordon Sieveke of Anaheim; Donald Rails and Helen Waer of Santa Ana; Paul Foss of Yorba Linda; and Lester Paulus, Victor Heim, Jean Fairbairn, Richard Ristow, Billie Burdg, Gilbert Timken and Everett Ristow of Olive.

Four Orange county clubs also won awards. They are the La Habra club, led by R. E. Launer; the Katella Farmers, led by A. C. Sutliff; the Chat 'n' Sew club, led by Mrs. E. L. Davis; and the Tustin Livewires, led by Mrs. C. G. Griset.

ORANGE SIZES SATISFACTORY

Average sizes of valencia oranges at this time of the year, as compared with previous records, are "very satisfactory."

A monthly report made today by the Association Laboratory at Anaheim, reported that outside fruits are .124 inches and inside fruits .197 inches larger than last year. Growth rates are somewhat above the average for the same period in previous years, with the exception of 1930 and 1934, the report said.

Average size of outside fruit was 2.435 inches, with 270 to the box, while average size of inside fruit is 2.334, with 299 fruit to the box.

Growth rates of outside fruit in the period from December to Jan. 1 to 10, averaged .116 for outside fruit and .126 for inside fruit.

The figures were based on measurements taken in 16 representative orange groves.

Cancel Taxes on Non-Existent Lots

Taxes assessed for three years against property that did not exist were canceled by the board of supervisors yesterday.

The taxes were levied in 1906, 1907 and 1908, County Auditor W. T. Lambert explained to the board, but they were through a clerical error.

Property named in the assessments was described as lots 1 to 10 of block 103, Vista Del Mar tract, Huntington Beach, but there isn't any such property, Lambert said.

Sun Shines in Yorba Linda More Than Most of State

The mere fact that California is sunny doesn't necessarily make news.

But when one section of a sunny state is selected as being more sunny than some other sunny sections of the state, that fact does make news.

A study of the number of sunshiny days in different parts of the state, made by the University of California, reveals that the interior valleys are the most practicable regions in which to use solar heaters—which means they are the most sunny places.

The Yorba Linda station was one of 12 named by the university in its survey where nearly 300 sunny days or more per year have been reported.

Almost all the major agricultural regions of the state have the equivalent of nine months of sunshine or more per year, the survey showed.

The survey showed that in the interior valleys of California, where daily sunshine is dependable for six or seven consecutive months out of the year, water heaters which harness solar energy are proving satisfactory for supplying hot water.

WPA HERE KNEW OF 'PADDING'

"Padding" of Orange county's contribution to the Santiago creek park WPA project by crediting $4 per ton from gravel dug from the wash, was done with the knowledge and consent of local WPA officials, A. A. Beard, county highway superintendent, told the board of supervisors yesterday.

Last week a letter from district WPA headquarters questioned the practice and said the claim would be turned down. The gravel was loaded by WPA men, according to the letter.

Beard said that when the project was set up, the county was not able to furnish 20 per cent of the cost, so local WPA officials agreed to allow the county credit for gravel. He was delegated yesterday to discuss the matter with WPA heads.

Cheap Meats Can Be Made Tasty

By JUDITH WILSON

The happy combination of an inexpensive yet thoroughly warming dinner in these lean, cold January days should fill our hearts with rejoicing. Here is a recipe I can recommend heartily.

Economy Curry

Have 1½ pounds round steak cut into ½-inch cubes or put through the coarse knife of your chopper. Brown with 1 cup minced onion in 3 tablespoons melted shortening. Add 1 tablespoon curry powder, a handful of seeded raisins, salt to season and ½ cup of water. Simmer over low heat until the meat is very tender. While the meat cooks, boil 1 pound rice until tender. Heap in a ring on a hot platter with the curried meat in the center. Garnish with quarters of banana that have been sauted in butter until golden brown. This will serve six.

B. AND P. W. CONCLAVE THIS WEEK-END

Several interesting speakers are scheduled for the meetings, including Donald H. McIntosh, principal of Colton Union High school, who will talk on "Citizenship" at the banquet Saturday night at 6:30 o'clock in Hughes cafe.

Luncheon speaker on Sunday will be Maurine Pemberton of the Brawley club, who will speak on "A Guest of the Japanese Government," relating her experiences in that capacity last summer.

A B. P. W. C. "good-will court" will follow an 8 o'clock breakfast gathering on Sunday morning, and the presidents' council will be held from 10 a. m. to noon.

Headquarters for the conclave are the California hotel in Fullerton. Reservations may be made up until Thursday noon with Miss Helen Gallagher, phone 2622, and all members are urged to attend, in order to keep up the record set at the last meeting.

BREAKFAST GIVEN FOR VISITOR

Mrs. Thomas Williams entertained informally at a breakfast party Monday morning in her home at 2477 Riverside drive, Mrs. Paul Johnson of Modesto, who is visiting in Santa Ana for a few weeks, forming the incentive for the courtesy.

Former neighbors of Mrs. Johnson, when she lived out in the Kilson drive vicinity, were invited to the breakfast, which was followed by several hours of reminiscing and sewing.

Gathering to honor the former Santa Anan, who will be returning soon to her home in the north, were her mother, Mrs. Charles Johnson; Mrs. Charles Trusty, Mrs. Rufus Bond and daughter, Eugenia, Mrs. Charles Tibbetts, and the hostess and her daughter, Lorna Frances.

Later in the day, Mrs. George Riehl of Fullerton, an old-time friend of the Johnsons, joined the group in their reminiscing and recalling their former days together.

Prescribes Diet For Low Vitality

By CLAUD CHRISMAN, M. D.

There are many ways of lowering one's vitality. Athletes do it by over-strenuous exercise. They say that tuberculosis resorts are full of broken-down runners and wrestlers. Overwork, overstudy, lack of sleep, ill-advised dieting are a few of the sources of depletion.

But about the proper food for any of these cases. Milk is always prescribed in as generous amount as the stomach will take or as prepared in cooked foods. Vegetables are almost all good but I am very careful about advising any coarse foods or much waste residue.

I have no argument about cooking foods resulting in a reduction of their food values. If preferred, raw vegetables may be grated and eaten with relish. Cabbage, celery, carrots, green corn in season, and peppers are all easily grated and served fresh from nature's sunlight, with benefit.

Cereal is usually prescribed once daily, dark bread and potatoes with discretion. Citrus fruit is best, but many kinds are good when palatable. Tomatoes are usually relished. Meat is allowed once a day, but unless the patient is able to to take exercise it is not necessary and may not be missed. Eggs, cheese, dried beans and peas, and lentils are allowed when no meat used.

The fats are essential and as much butter and cream must be allowed as can be afforded. Last, but perhaps first in importance, are the easily assimilated oils; olive oil, cod liver oil, and the still expensive but most potent haliver is used.

In conclusion, a "supporting" diet can be supporting only when bolstered by regular elimination, relaxation, water, air and sunshine, together with reasonable peace of mind.

Spanish Menu Enjoyed by Church

Completion of twenty-five years of work in support of the little Mexican Mission at First and Garfield streets was marked by members of the First Methodist church when they gathered at their church for their annual Spanish supper cooked and served by the women of the mission.

Choosing for the menu favorite dishes of their people, the cooks prepared a delicious dinner of tamales, frijoles, tortillas de Maiz, enselada de gelatina, pasteles de manzana, and cafe del charro, and served it with appointments in keeping with the theme.

After dinner, Mrs. F. W. Wiesseman, who is chairman of the board in charge of the work for the mission, presided over the evening program, which had been arranged by the young people of the Mexican congregation.

The orchestra opened the program with an overture, "The Conqueror," by Zamecnik, and "Baltazar," by V. Villalpando.

Greetings were given by Mrs. Wiesseman and the other members of the board, and numbers following included:

"Ave Maria," by Schubert, "Chimes of Notre Dame," played by the orchestra; solo, Cantaros Vacios," by Cy Granados, and duets by Inas and Cy Granados; solo, "Hearts and Flowers," by Moses Tobani; "Overtura Dramatica," by the orchestra.

The highlight of the evening was a report on the progress of the mission during the past year, given by the Rev. J. C. Palacios, its minister, showing increase not only in membership but also in interest and enthusiasm among its members.

Concluding the program were "The Pilgrims," Wellesley, and "Aria" from "Carmen," Bizet, played by the orchestra.

The work of supporting and aiding the little mission was started just 25 years ago by the First Methodist church, under the leadership of the late F. W. Wiesseman. On his death, the project was carried on by Mrs. Wiesseman, who still heads the board in charge of this worthy work, and who superintended during the past year the remodeling of the little church, with the aid of members of the mission congregation.

After the bridge games, the hostesses spread the tables for dainty refreshments, using purple stocks, violets and white tapers in an effective color motif.

Mary Stoddard

Correspondent Calls Simon Conceited Naive, Self-Appointed Psychologist

By MARY STODDARD

One of our thoughtful readers sends some mighty well balanced comment anent the recent outburst of "Simple Simon" who returned to our midst after a year's silence with the big news that he can make any woman or girl, married or single, young or old, fall for his line. She also sends a good thought to the mother of two children who is pining away because they cannot attend the opera and mix with people who are the cream of the intelligentsia.

Dear Miss Stoddard: Wonder if Simple Simon knows another funny joke?

Simmie, thou art naive in thy conceit. A self-appointed psychologist is an unpleasant creature to live with at best.—Get wise to yourself and use that analytical tendency where it will do the most good.

Not all individuals are worthy of respect, although some of us admire consideration for mother's feelings or weaknesses. Personally I think men and women are chips off the same old block.

Perhaps there are more virtuous women than men. It would stand to reason that there are, for they are trained peculiarly and they are different physically—However, I do not think anyone ever undertook to get exact statistics on this subject, who knows or who cares?

Womanhood or manhood, however, is something that should not be sneered at. Collectively either one is beautiful and worthy of respect from people such as you or I.

For the sake of womanhood some men keep their hands off a clean individual. For the sake of manhood some women indulge in hero worship for an individual. And these are the things that make this old world endurable for fools such as you and I. You had a let-down and I feel sorry for you, but you should come out of it clean. Most people have drunk of the cup of humiliation and it is bitter.

Now I should like to say a word to the lady who admires harmony. Why doesn't she seek out the undernote of harmony that holds her to her environment? This is the keynote that inspires the musician and the perspective that makes the artist great. A poet identifies himself with his people. Grand opera is beautiful, but so is God's opera—the wind, the waves, the murmur of voices, human emotions and passions, the intense feeling that holds each person to a life of mediocrity or otherwise—the opera in which every person is a diva. So make the best of your environment, dear lady, and teach those kids of yours the art of mingling harmoniously with their neighbors. It is unhealthy to spend your life at dreaming. You have creative work to do, if it's no more than sweeping floors.

No matter how odious it is to you, you will never get anywhere until you can do it with cheer and with your mind on it. It is the unknown people who do the world's work that makes it possible for the artist to imitate nature. It is you and I that make the great man greater by reverence. Hoping you will find peace.

HOME-KEEPER.

CHARACTER ROLE

JUNE TERRY PICKRELL

June Terry Pickrell, above, plays the part of the poor, illiterate, uncouth Italian mother, Mrs. Velarde, in the play "It Might Happen to You" which the Santa Ana Council of Parents and Teachers is bringing to the local high school auditorium on Jan. 19 and 20.

AS MRS. ANTONIA VELARDE

When the lady discards the Pickrell personality and dons the poor garments that are all Mrs. Velarde has for clothes, her own sister wouldn't know her. She will appear on the high school stage to prosecute to the full extent of the law the man who made a wreck of the one thing in life that this ignorant immigrant woman loved. Those who have children of their own will be able to understand and sympathize with this poor mother.

BENEFIT PARTY FOR WOMAN'S CLUB

Reservations are still being taken for the dessert bridge party which ways and means committee of the Women's club is sponsoring on the afternoon of Jan. 20 at the R. J. Pagett home, 801 South Parton street.

The party is being limited to eight tables, and reservations are being taken by Mrs. Pagett, phone 3953-R, or Mrs. E. A. Elwell, phone 3719-W.

Initiate Six At Dinner Meeting

A simple little initiation ceremony was invested with considerable dignity and beauty last night when six young business women were taken into Wrycende Maegdenu. Mrs. William Fritcher conducted the candle-lighted ceremony following the weekly dinner meeting of the club in the Y. W. C. A. rooms. The new members include Beatrice Smith, Rosamund Hannah, Florence Pahl, Helen O'Brien, Eunice Spicer and Eva Marshall.

Miss Bonnie Kiser had been chosen to introduce the speaker of the evening, since she is a graduate of Occidental college, and Morgan Odell, who spoke on the topic "Toward a Greater Self," is professor of religion at that college.

Mr. Odell was an extremely interesting speaker and gave as the first of three paramount steps to leading a fine life the necessity of taking time to be sensitive to the beauty of things surrounding one. His second point concerned developing a definite program of sense of responsibility, and his third was to give oneself to some great cause.

Honored guests of the club included Mr. and Mrs. Odell, Miss Grace Stuff, national secretary of the Girl Reserves; Miss Mary Howard, Miss Mary Porter and members of the Y. W. C. A. board.

It was announced that the Wrycende Maegdenu would sponsor a benefit bridge party on Feb. 2, and that next week's program would be book reviews given by Miss Mary Ford and Miss Katherine Spicer.

MRS. COLLIER ENTERTAINS PASO TIEMPO

Mrs. E. B. Collier was hostess today to members of Paso Tiempo club, the group gathering at her home at 117 East Washington for a dessert luncheon and afternoon of contract.

The hostess spread her table with a lace cloth and centered it with a bowl of narcissus, placing pots of cyclamen through the other rooms for touches of brightness.

Those enjoying the hospitality of her home were Mrs. Nannie B. Lester, Mrs. Charles Borchard, Mrs. L. M. Banks, Mrs. J. P. Murphy, Mrs. Ethelbert Johnson, Mrs. Carl Klatt, Mrs. P. B. Gillespie, and Miss Anne Flannagan.

TUSTIN GROWERS RECEIVE $500,000 FOR 1936 HARVEST

Brick Dust

Here and There With The Journal's Rambling County Editor

By T. N. (BRICK) GAINES

WILLIAM (Songbird) Gallienne, the terror of the tidelands, pops up with a new'n in his home town of Huntington Beach.

William and his cohorts, as perhaps you've read, have been promoting a Pacific Coast trailer convention. Hundreds of trailer-travelers, they aver, will visit their charming seaside city sometime in the springtime.

Well, yesterday they had a sort of advance visitor. A visitor which made even the eyes of the most ardent trailer boosters bulge a bit. This, my friend Gallienne claimed, was a trailer convention all its own!

When R. F. Vale, of Springfield, Mo., pulled into town, he really did bring his home with him, according to those who saw the curious caravan. Judged the largest in the world, this traveling homestead carried its own electric light plant, furnishing power for the usual lighting system; for a built-in refrigerator, standard size; for an electric washing machine and electric iron; for a sewing machine and various other household gadgets. I forgot to ask about waffle irons!

But, on top of all that, the ingenious Mr. Vale also has a regular radio. And a regular broadcasting station. And a short-wave receiving set—and broadcasting set. Plus a large collection of saws and other tools.

* * *

But that's only half the story. The other half concerns the Vale family.

The Vale youngsters, of which there are four, have done a good bit of traveling, even if none of 'em are old enough to go to school.

The oldest boy was born in Texas. The next, a girl, was born in Chillicothe, Miss. Kansas is the birth state of the next, another boy, while the youngest, a girl, was born in Missouri.

The youngest, who arrived only 10 months ago, already has been in 12 states!

With feet planted on the editorial desk of Jim Farquhar, guider of Huntington Beach newspaper destinies, I learned much of things in his community.

But mostly I learned of modernistic plans for punching oil wells here, turning things, and having 'em come out there. Or somewhere else. Interesting!

Seems that our most famous oil city has gone home-minded. Almost everyone is building a new house, or is planning to do so. Grand residential districts are springing up all over the place. Which is very nice.

But that old boogy-man, oil, also is beginning to rear his ugly head. G r-r-r! Wouldn't those sightly residential sections look terrible garnished with dozens and dozens of derricks? Yeah!

So they've evolved a plan. A honey. They'll plant their derricks some distance away from the homes, and drill under 'em. Whipstocking, we used to call it. Now it's directional drilling, which is a chicken from the same pen.

Whatever you call it, they can slant their hole and aim for a spot a half-mile or more away. And get oil—they hope.

Don't you think that's a lovely plan? I can sympathize with those home-lovers who don't want their residences desecrated by unsightly pumps and undecorated derricks. A fair method of dividing royalties undoubtedly can be arranged, and everybody'll be happy. Maybe.

* * *

Incidentally, M. M. (Jackrabbitus) McCallen, new president of the Huntington Beach C. of C., has started something.

Last night was the first meeting of the chamber under its new officers. President McCallen set the boys up to a luscious steak feed. Which made everyone happy. They weren't rabbit steaks, either.

So the next president of that chamber of commerce has his program outlined for him. Free dinner!

* * *

I scouted Huntington Beach for an hour, seeking news of Major J. T. Africa, who recently was re-elected president of the Windsor club, and who is known from coast-to-coast for his lurid footgear.

But there was no news of John. It seems he's still addicted to rainbow-colored socks, but that's all. I followed one pair of good-looking hosiery down the street, but she wasn't him!

* * *

News trickles in from the Brea sector about formation of a yacht club there.

Seems that in that community, instead of puddles after a rain they have lakes. And they're going to from a yachting organization, with Mike Hogue, or some other prominent sailor, as president.

And Dr. Glenn Curtis is to have private fishing rights on all bodies of water coming under jurisdiction of the new club.

Even with a monopoly, I'll bet he can't catch any!

CROP RECORD BROKEN IN PAST YEAR

S. A.-Tustin Association Has Annual Meeting; Hoxie Is Speaker

TUSTIN.—Receipts totaling more than $500,000 as the result of the largest tonnage handled in 14 years of operation were reported by Manager A. J. Theis at the annual meeting of the Santa Ana-Tustin Mutual Citrus association.

Fruit handled during the year totaled 480 carloads, of which 15 were navels and the balance valencias, bringing to growers total receipts of $529,582. Refunds on the packing retain and repayment of the revolving fund totaled $55,466.

Hoxie Reports

Detailed activities of the cooperative during the last year were given by Wyckoff Hoxie, president of the cooperative, which is affiliated with Mutual Orange Distributors.

"Our fruit during the last year was of good sizes, running to larger, and the quality was good," the report said. "The audit shows the association in its usual good financial condition, with no debts."

The report by Hoxie gave approval to the activities of the Mutual Orange Distributors, and called especial attention to the contract for by-products fruit, completed by the distributors early last year, and which, Hoxie stated, improved returns for this class of fruit about 300 per cent over previous years. He also mentioned the reduction in freight rates, approximately 6 cents a packed box, as one of the major activities of the traffic department of the distributors.

Growth Told

Stressing the detail of the largest tonnage in the history of the house, Hoxie said "Our association from a very modest beginning has had a steady, healthy growth, and today is larger, stronger and better organized than ever before. This happy result is due to the loyalty and fine spirit of cooperation of our members, the harmony and devotion to duty of our directors, and the capable work of our manager and the employes."

The meeting was at noon, in the First Presbyterian church, with a turkey dinner served to 250 growers and their guests. Invocation was given by the Rev. Calvin Duncan, pastor of the church.

Executives of the MOD who gave short talks were J. H. Strait, president; A. E. Isham, field manager; J. A. Steward, sales manager, and E. J. Brickell, manager the supply department.

GULLS CRAFTY CRITTERS

Drop Clams to Break Them

NEWPORT-BALBOA. — Seagulls flying high are not always a sign of dirty weather. They might be just clamming, according to Newport-Balboa's fire chief, Frank Crocker.

The birds have to fly high with a clam in their claws in order to spy a hard spot on which to drop the shell and break it open, he would have you know.

"Mostly," says Frank, "they choose Ninth street. It is one of the best pieces of concrete paving in the town."

Skeptics may visit the street and see for themselves.

For safety's sake, though, it might be well to borrow the fire chief's new helmet, a bowler of bakelite, flashy white in color and guaranteed as substantial as it is stylish.

Editors and Their Opinions

A digest of ideas from Orange county newspapers, reprinted as being of interest to readers of The Journal.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

(Orange Daily News)

The address with which the President greeted the opening of the seventy-fifth congress was one becoming to the dignity of the executive of a great nation upon an historical occasion. The moderation of language and clarity of statement distinguish the document as one of the most impressive of the Roosevelt papers.

While considerable attention has been attracted to the portions of the message which seem to imply criticism of the supreme court, such criticism is not, indeed, the impressive part of the President's views. The message discovers an open and forceful allegiance to constitutional practice and speaks most respectfully of the basic law, saying specifically, that there is little fault to be found with the constitution. This implies that no attempt will be made to amend it and the President suggests that necessary legislation can be fitted into the framework of the constitutional structure.

In this account of the state of the nation, there is one notable omission. No reference is made to the wide-spread and destructive strikes afflicting a large part of the nation and constituting a challenge to government. On the whole, however, the President's message can be read with approval even by those who disagree with some of his policies. It is clear, dignified and appropriate to the occasion.

Snookums, a cat owned by Dr. and Mrs. T. L. Jones of Mayetta, Kan., has traveled 12,000 miles in five trips to California and visits to a dozen states with its owners.

* * * * * * * * *

Pair Pay $5 for 18 at Laguna

LAGUNA BEACH.—The delicacy of Laguna's prolific abalones proved an expensive proposition for C. A. Tucker and J. L. Owens of Santa Ana, when their catch of 18 abalones without a fishing permit cost them $5 in Judge C. C. Cravath's court yesterday.

The fishermen were apprehended by C. T. Jackson, state fish and game warden, and of their $10 fine, $5 was suspended on condition that they buy fishing licenses.

Although the abalone season ends Jan. 15, Judge Cravath emphasized the necessity of having a fishing license for any type of piscatorial venture.

DANGEROUS LANDINGS

By LOIS BULL—Author of 'Captive Goddess'

When Linda Marshall, American girl flier, is lost over the Pacific on a solo round-the-world flight, Tommy Drew, who is in love with her, has secret knowledge that her disappearance was deliberate and is in some way connected with her uncle, Copernicus Marshall, a scientist supposed to have been lost on an expedition years ago. Tommy and Jerry Mitchell, newspaper man, finds Linda on an island off Hong Kong, the prisoner of a man named Patrick Flane, and rescue her. Her uncle, she says, is on Crab Island, in the Pacific, and has made a scientific discovery of vast importance. Flane is plotting against him and is now on the way to Crab Island. Tommy goes to the British commanding officer at Hong Kong, tells him Linda is alive, and tries to persuade him to keep this dark, and let Linda and himself secretly take off for Crab Island from the military flying field.

Tommy waited breathlessly for Connaught's answer. The hope of getting Linda away, at dawn depended upon it. At last the older man sank back into his chair, and Tommy knew he had won.

"But just how can I explain your leaving the field with a passenger?" the C. O. demanded.

"I understand, sir, that Buddy Whitaker left word to the effect that if I needed to carry a mechanic, that could be arranged. In flying clothes, Miss Marshall could pass for a man, and I doubt whether the name 'L Marshall' on the papers would cause undue comment. Marshall is a common enough name out here."

"You do seem to have thought of everything!" The old man's eyes twinkled suspiciously. "But how am I to know this isn't some cock-and-bull story you've been giving me? Confound it, man, you're asking me to take a long chance."

"Then all I can suggest, sir, is that you be at the field a few minutes before dawn. If I've lied, it's not too late to ground me. You can see Miss Marshall herself."

"Right! Then I'd better go over with you now, and see that things are kept quiet."

The C. O. called the house boy and said, "Tell Mrs. Connaught I'm called to the field unexpectedly and can't wait for dinner."

The boy turned but, before he could leave, a woman appeared in the doorway.

She smiled understandingly as she said in a matter of fact voice: "I've had the hamper filled—warm soup, a few beef sandwiches, and coffee. The car's at the door, and don't be any later than you have to be."

"Drew," said Connaught, "you are face to face with the grandest little woman in the world. Mother, this is Tommy Drew, Tommy, Mrs. Connaugh, the only lady I ever knew who never asks why when a chap's late for dinner." He turned to his wife again. "Mother, Tommy knows the Dunmores. Went to school with Joyce. We've an emergency job over at the field."

"And I knew we'd not be having that quiet dinner together. The first time in weeks we'd planned to be alone! And I've a special beef, done the way you like it. Well, it can't be helped!" Mrs. Connaught's eyes twinkled as she turned to Tommy, "I should be very cross with you. But perhaps you'll make your peace with me by having dinner with us one day next week. You're just come out from home?"

But Connaught interposed hastily. "Yes, Tommy's just flown out from London on a little mission. Ahem! Come along, lad, we must be getting started. Bless you, Mother, for the lunch kit. We may be gone all night." Then, in chagrin, he remembered his dinner clothes, I say, Tommy, I will have to change, you know. Won't take a minute. Wait here and tell Mrs. Connaught all about home, I know she can hardy wait to ask you a thousand questions."

And so, after all, Mrs. Connaught got her news from England. As Tommy and the C. O. left, she called, "Good luck to you both. And if you're taking off, lad, before I next see you . . . a good landing!"

She was a tiny figure waving from the veranda as the car left the grounds and raced toward the flying field. "The good Lord made only one like her, lad," Connaught said. And then, suddenly, he became the C. O. again, making plans in curt, terse commands.

Meanwhile in the cottage of Fu Yang, Linda had tried to feel at ease after Tommy and Jerry had left here. Fu Yang had said, "You catch plenty sleep now. I watch. You plenty safe." With that he had disappeared.

The next moment, Fu Yang's wife, a wrinkled little crone, brought a hot pot of pale tea. After Linda had finished drinking it, the old woman motioned to a couch by the wall. As Linda lay back, she was covered with a light throw, for the night had turned cool. Then, without saying a word, the old woman went to the one door of the room and squatted there, her sharp black eyes moving ceaselessly in an otherwise immobile face.

Linda knew it would be impossible for her to sleep, so lay there thinking. She felt confident that, if humanly possible. Tommy would get them off at dawn. But it irked her to lie here, a virtual prisoner again, while others were active, doing things for her. Luxury she had been used to all her life; but pampering, never.

Motherless since early childhood, she and her father had been more like father and son, than father and daughter. He had impressed upon her at early age that one day she would be mistress of the Marshall millions; and he had taught her to acknowledge that as a great responsibility.

When he had expanded his great shipping interests to cover affiliated airlines, Linda had become one of his pilots. That was when she had first met Jerry, and she had never forgotten him. Just a publicity stunt for the Marshall Air Transport company, had been his taunt. She had shown him otherwise! She smiled now at the recollection.

Publicity! How long it had taken her to whip that accusation from all sides! But since her father's death, Linda had become a person of importance in aviation. Time after time, she had made important flights. Now, every time she announced a venture, it was front page news. At last, the world recognized her as serious aviator and not a wealthy playgirl out for thrills.

As she lay there, Linda wondered vaguely what was ahead now. She believed implicitly in her uncle's experiments. She visualized the far-reaching potentialities, her imagination running riot.

Suddenly, she realized she must have been dozing. A slight movement outside the room brought her wide awake. She grasped her revolver firmly under the coverlet. The old Chinese woman, her eyes darting around nervously, must have heard too! Then, as Linda watched, two clawlike hands, one bandaged at the wrist, reached from behind the partition toward the old woman's throat.

The Eurasian had followed her here!

'BORN TO DANCE' AT WALKER'S

"Born to Dance," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's successor to "The Great Ziegfeld," comes to Walker's theater tomorrow, heading a double bill, the other feature on which is "The Captain's Kid."

Eleanor Powell, premier female tap dancer of the screen and stage, is starred in "Born to Dance." The picture tells the story of a small-town girl who falls in love with a sailor and nearly loses him to a stage favorite. Numerous scenes of life on a submarine pack the picture, in addition to dazzling sequences of dance numbers in which Miss Powell, Buddy Ebsen and others appear.

In the cast with Miss Powell and Ebsen are James Stewart, Virginia Bruce, Una Merkel, Sid Silvers, Frances Langford, Raymond Walburn, Alan Dinehart, Juanita Quigley and Georges and Jalna.

May Robson, Sybil Jason and Guy Kibbee are featured in "The Captain's Kid," a story telling the efforts of a crabbed old maid who tries in vain to bring up her two nieces, one 7 and the other 20, according to her straight-laced New England standards.

Others in the cast include Jane Bryan, Fred Lawrence, Dick Purcell, Mary Treen, Guy Shy, Vic Potel and George E. Stone.

In addition, the bill presents a newsreel and cartoon, and features continuous shows daily beginning at 2 p. m., except on Saturdays and Sundays, at which time the continuous shows begin at 1 p. m.

YOU SLEEP TOO MUCH

Reed Smoot Says It's So

SALT LAKE CITY. (AP)—Reed Smoot, 30 years a senator and now exclusively a church worker, at the start of his seventy-fifth year today bemoaned a people who "sleep too much."

"There are many who work but 40 hours a week and sleep eight or nine hours a day," the former senate dean charged. "That is a deplorable waste of a most precious resource—time.

"A person in perfect health can work 10, 12 and even 14 hours a day, and thrive on not more than six hours of sleep."

Smoot, who observed his seventy-fifth birthday Sunday, for most of his life has exercised the principles of "plenty of work and not too much sleep." During a long period as chairman of the senate finance committee he often worked as many as 20 out of the 24 hours, he said.

"But I'm getting old and I'm tapering off a little now," he smiled. Tall, white haired and energetic, he could pass for a man of 60.

For the nation's young men, Smoot suggested these principles:

"Keep busy, keep bodily clean. Have high ideals. Remember that idleness is the devil's workshop. Eat plain foods. Avoid hot drinks. Never touch intoxicating liquors of any kind."

GEISHA GIRLS SWING IT

Nippon Maids Go American

TOKYO. (AP) — Japan's Geisha girls sing their songs in swing time now.

And they croon, too.

Important statistics on moving pictures and phonograph records from the United States disclosed today the spread of occidental styles in the ancient, oriental calling of the Geisha girls.

For hundreds of years these entertainers have sung to their guests the classical music of Japan and native folk dances and melodies.

Now they have learned from American phonograph records and sound films how to croon American blues. Some have taken up the rhumba. Most of the 73,000 Geisha girls—who take an eight-year course in entertaining—now include Bing Crosby and Josephine Baker types in their repertoires.

Are Fascists to Be Censored, Too?

NOW that the board of education has decided it won't permit asserted Communists to lecture under its sponsorship, what does it plan to do about the two young Nazi and Fascist representatives who are scheduled to speak at Junior college next Friday?

We refer specifically to Miss Ursula Schaffer of Essen, Germany, and Dr. P. M. Pasinetti of Venice, Italy, both of whom are attending a California university with the sanction of their homeland's dictatorial governments.

This question is not intended to embarrass the board or to add to the troubles which it gratuitously carries for the rest of us.

But it does emphasize a fine point in the business of censoring school programs.

Why refuse to let an asserted Red talk to grown-up folks who are begging to hear him—and yet expose the tender minds of young boys and girls to what acknowledged Blackshirts and Brownshirts have to say?

If there is a logical explanation for this, we would be glad to hear and print it.

Fascism and Nazism are as foreign to free America as any other form of European tyranny.

Don't get the idea that The Journal wants to gag those two young people from Italy and Germany. Probably we can learn something about their way of living and their viewpoints. We need all the knowledge we can gather.

But the same principle also applies to the Lewis Browne case.

As the Christian Science Monitor says: "Democracy needs no alliances with ignorance or partial ignorance. Dictatorship—Fascist or Communist—may thrive on half truths. Free government can stand the light."

The Journal is thoroughly satisfied that American political institutions are the most enlightened and finest in the world.

If we weren't, we, too, would call for elimination of the hateful words of Fascist, Nazi and Communist from our schools.

Meanwhile, we hope the school board protects its prestige by lining up with the majority of the people and leading the community out of this free-speech tangle.

New York is said to have spent millions for its New Year eve celebration. That man Roosevelt is taxing the country to death.

They Want Work—Not Charity

IN THIS DAY when so many middle-aged and jobless people seem willing to live on charity, it's like a spring tonic to read about a group of oldsters who are determined to earn their own way.

You may have seen their story in yesterday's Journal. You can read their ad on another page in today's. It starts:

> From one to 500 able-bodied men over 55 years of age, active, experienced, in perfect health, offer their services at $1 a day and board.

A little further down, you read:

> This is a nationwide movement for the purpose of furnishing skilled labor at a reasonable price and giving elderly mechanics a job.

And then:

> We must live. The promise of a $35 a month pension will not support us.

The Journal is glad to give this advertisement space in the editorial column at no charge.

The message of those now over 55 rings with that old-time, fighting pioneer spirit that made the remarkable development of this country possible.

These middle-aged men aren't licked—even if some of our so-called efficiency engineers want only young blood to throw into their machines. No!

They're out to get an existence by the sweat of their brow in the face of rigorous competition. And they'll battle just like the early settlers of California who dared deserts, rivers, mountains and hostile Indians to get what they want. And we believe they'll win.

Middle-aged men have steadiness, experience and dependability. That counts for a lot.

Here's hoping that every one of them lands a job—at far better wages than they ask.

More than $250,000 was contributed by the Du Ponts to the Landon campaign. If they're not careful, they'll get their names on the sucker list.

Greater Safety Margin Needed

EVERYONE is glad that the spectacular airliner crash near San Fernando yesterday did not come to the same tragic conclusion as the earlier disaster near Saugus in which 13 persons lost their lives.

There is enough similarity between the two accidents, however, to point out the need of better terminal facilities in the upper San Fernando valley.

Both planes were shattered within a few miles of the home base.

A better radio landing beam, another emergency port strategically located, better beacons—and other devices known to aviation experts—might have prevented the crashes.

A full department of commerce investigation will reveal this.

Aviation has traveled far since the Wrights first took the air at Kitty Hawk.

But there must be even a greater margin of safety before the average man and woman will willingly leave ground to travel.

What we need is a permanent neutrality law to keep us out of a war that we want to get into.

Whimsies of O. O. McIntyre

O. O. McIntyre

Jay Jerome Williams is an odd fish in the newspaper syndicate waters. He has conducted a strip for boys under a pseudonym for years. He sells a number of features himself out of a classy set of offices in Washington, D. C. And has a gentleman's estate at Cherrydale, Va.

He is also the sub-rosa publisher of a little paper for boys called "Parade of Youth" which is inserted in many newspapers. It is devoted to the trials and tribulations of that juvenile world known as Boyville. And back of its publication is a heart interest story.

Williams was orphaned at an early age, and like many such neglected youngsters, flipped freight trains to see the world. He was starving in a western town when a stranger asked him if he would like to earn a dollar. He proposed that the raggedy lad pawn a watch for him.

The boy took the watch. Then some hunch tingled an awareness of danger. He gave the watch back. A few moments later the stranger was arrested for theft. Williams was so impressed with what might have happened to an innocent boy he has spent much time and cash trying to protect them.

Near Radio City a pan-handler sidled up to a passing woman and mumbled an appeal. To his amazement she turned on him in a fury and pointing to herself fairly shouted: "Me? Why I've been working all day. What in the hell have you been doing?" And did that moocher take it on the lam to a burst of hand claps from the sidelines.

Noel Coward has the most unusual and least decipherable signature of the arrivsters. It sprawls over the page of a guest book, the N. suggesting one of those drawn out business charts. The "oel" zigzags like a sky rocket and the Coward does a nip up and then imitates the bumps and down grade of a Coney Island rolier coaster.

John McCormack's farewell tour is engendered by the fact he has sufficient world goods and wants a little leisure to do the things he desires. Plus his realization of the inevitable toll the years take of a magnificent voice. But the chief reason is sentimental, close friends insist. He has had little zest for concert appearance since the passing a short while ago of his life long friend and business manager, Dennis McSweeney. They were like brothers and had roamed the world together since McCormack's professional debut.

William Gaxton fulfills again this season the tag of Broadway's luckiest actor. He is a slick performer, of course, but almost every play in which he has appeared in the past eight years has been outstanding. Often running more than a year. Some thought he had become a cropper in "White Horse Tavern." The critical survey was discouraging, but after the first week began to pick up and Gaxton was in another sizable hit.

* * *

Gaxton is one of the matinee idol types whose marriage has been a Broadway idyll. Seventeen years ago he was married to beautiful Madeline Cameron of a popular singing and dancing sister act. Every night she is a visitor to his dressing room—he will not have it otherwise, and they are always teamed up in occasional rounds of cafes and night clubs. Gaxton is also one of the wealthiest players and has prospered on the side in the perfume business. He is of Spanish parentage, San Francisco born, his original name being Don Gaxonola. He is also the current shepherd of the Lambs.

After several years of tobacco abstinence I was persuaded to sample a deep inhale from a narghile in a Turkish cafe on Washington street the other night. A few minutes later my face froze in a pea-green sick grin, the room began to spin, then loop the loop and I made for the outer air, chin up, walking stiffly. From now on if I break abstinence I'll stick to what Grandma called "cubebies."

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON.—There will not be a knock-down-and-drag-out auto strike. The President is determined not to permit such a costly struggle to develop in this major industry.

If current negotiations between the union and motor executives fail, he will immediately step in, call both sides to Washington and personally act as arbiter. This course of action has been definitely decided upon.

In keeping with his policy of not intervening in labor disputes, the President so far has kept hands off the automobile controversy. But he wants no repetition of the longshoremen's and seamen's strike which has crippled Pacific coast shipping for weeks, at a loss of millions of dollars not only to the contestants but to industry generally.

A protracted tie-up in the motor industry would have even more serious reverberations throughout the entire country, and Roosevelt is prepared to use every measure to avert this disaster.

MISSING BUT NOT MISSED

Prominently absent from the group of rail union leaders who have been conferring with railroad executives recently on wage and hour demands, preparatory to meeting with President Roosevelt, was Alexander F. Whitney, dapper head of the Brotherhood of Trainmen. But while missing, Whitney was not missed by his associates.

Among them he is viewed with pronounced disapproval. And they haven't been backward in voicing their sentimentals publicly.

In a recent magazine article, George M. Harrison, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives association, of which Whitney is a member and once was head, tossed a bouquet of brickbats, and old Tom Cashen, veteran president of the Switchmen's union, followed with another.

J. A. Phillips, scholarly president of the Railway conductors, expressed his opinion even more emphatically. At a conference in Chicago, he filed serious charges against Whitney. Whitney replied with an epithet. Phillips' retort was an ink bottle, thrown at Whitney's head.

Reason for Whitney's absence from the current conference is that he has been on his way back to the United States from the Buenos Aires peace meeting. The trainmen chief was a member of the U. S. delegation.

Whitney's selection as a peace missionary was an accident. As a gesture to labor, the President decided to put a unionite on the delegation. He offered the appointment to Dan Tobin of the teamsters. But Dan was busy with other matters and declined. So Roosevelt turned to Harrison, who also said no. Dave Robertson of the railroad engineers was the next approached, but he too was not interested.

In desperation, the President finally turned to Whitney.

REAL OBJECT

Behind the President's dramatic attack on the supreme court in his message to congress is one object, and only one. It is to curb the power of the federal judiciary.

That is the inside explanation for his strategy in sounding the praises of the constitution. His blast against the supreme court was an echo, although a suavely and diplomatically worded one, of his famous "horse-and-buggy" fusillade following the court's invalidation of the NRA.

Having set the stage as a defender of the constitution, the President now is waiting for a slip by the court to resume the offensive. The first adverse decision on a New Deal or liberal measure will see him move with dispatch and vigor.

Just what form the attack will take is undecided. It will depend largely on developments. Various proposals are on tap—but none of them are constitutional amendments for enlarging the power of congress.

The President considers amendments too laborious and uncertain. Also, he holds that the constitution gives congress plenty of authority to act, that what is needed is to strip the courts of excessive power.

Note: If the supreme court does not give him an opening, it is definitely planned to force one.

TUGWELL'S REPORT

Rex Tugwell put over a coup before retiring that has New Deal executives green with envy.

The former Resettlement Administration chief issued an annual report that is a new departure in public documents. Ordinarily, they are dull, forbidding looking publications, printed on cheap paper in small type and devoid of illustrations.

Rex's report is entirely different. It is a handsome book, printed on glossy paper and filled with attractive pictures, many of them in colors.

Other department and bureau heads had the same idea, but they were unable to put it over. The TVA even went to the length of bringing two experts from its Knoxville office to discuss the matter with the public printer. But he turned them down cold, said it couldn't be done under the law.

Just how Tugwell got it done is a dark RA secret. But it was very simple. All Tugwell did was to send his report to the printer with detailed instructions on how he wanted it printed. And that is the way it was done.

Explanation for the seeming favoritism is that the RA, under Tugwell, was an emergency agency financed wholly by relief funds. Thus it did not come under the regulations that apply to the permanent agencies, and the public printer was able to execute Tugwell's orders.

One Man's Opinion

By X REPORTER

The three greatest lessons this nation has learned from its recent great depression, it seems to me, are these:

1. That starvation is not necessary for any citizen or his family while the nation as a whole has plenty of food within its borders.

2. That the nation need not be bankrupted by clinging to monetary standards that are all out of kilter with the monetary standards of the other leading commercial nations of the world.

3. That monetary control and credit control are the perfectly legitimate functions of government and may, if sensibly practiced, reflate a perilously deflated currency and also nullify what has seemed in other nations to be a natural and wholly uncontrollable inflation.

There have been many other lessons, too, but out of them all these give the greatest assurance that the United States of America can and will chart a course through a world scene that is filled with governmental disasters, wrecks of national hopes and aspirations, and with mushroom-growth dictatorships that are akin to banditry and piracy.

No "let them eat cake" theory in time of distress can ever gain lasting foothold in our land. That we know.

Uncle Sam has learned to play the devious game of international finance finally—after having burned his fingers for many decades. Right now, what with his stabilization fund and other minor advantages, he has taken a man's place in the diplomatic-financial area of the world, where once the European nations held full power and gave no quarter.

The stock market can't go crazy with gilded schemes again as it did in the late 20's, and credit for speculation (thus inflation) can be clipped quick and short by legitimate manipulations of the Federal Reserve board.

Oh, I know our United States doesn't present a perfect picture. But look in any direction you wish around the world and see if you find a better-looking prospect.

Through his bitter experience with certain beneficiary nations, before and during the depression, Uncle Sam cut his wisdom teeth in the ways of the world. He has proved and is proving his "good neighbor" qualities with the nations of the western hemisphere. And he has learned, is learning, and will learn how better to care for his own sons and daughters in a grim world full of conflict.

Muddling through? Well, maybe.

GLADDENED 62 FAMILIES

To the Editor: The Santa Ana Council of Parents and Teachers wishes to thank you and your staff for the splendid publicity given our Christmas benefit show in your paper.

There is no doubt that the generous publicity went a long way toward gladdening the hearts of 62 needy families in Santa Ana at Christmas time.

HESTER OLEWILER,
Corresponding Secretary.

BROWNE LECTURE

To the Editor: May I have a little of your valuable space in voicing my protest against any individual or any minority group of individuals seeking to dictate to the rest of the people as to what they may hear or may not hear? Especially when that minority group wishes to indoctrinate the majority with the idea or belief in the rule of a few who may or may not be intelligent be they fascists or persons with mere superiority complexes.

The persons who are willing to underwrite the lectures of Lewis Browne are to be commended. There are many progressive persons in Santa Ana and nearby communities, who will be glad of the opportunity to pay an admission fee in order to hear as challenging a speaker as Lewis Browne. As citizens of the United States under a constitutional form of government with the right to hear and be heard guaranteed them, these citizens are well within their rights and have a fine opportunity of helping to perpetuate the right of peaceful assemblage and free speech.

If those who are so concerned with preventing the rest of us from hearing anything except their brand of discussion, would inform themselves upon all sides of questions to which they object, they would then be better able to defend their stand. Persecution only tends to spread objectionable beliefs or ideas as well as the more worthwhile teachings. Surely we all believe in a democratic form of government and are willing that all the people shall have the rights that we demand for ourselves. We, the people, should have the opportunity of "proving all things, and holding fast to that which is good." H. STANDARD.

Howdy, folks! An eastern firm is offering $500 for the person with the biggest smile in the United States.

Give us the $500 and we'll produce it.

Irrespective of frost or any other elemental disturbance the 27th National Orange show will be held in San Bernardino Feb. 18-28. The decorative motif will be "Gay Hollywood." This annual event is outstanding in San Bernardino's history. It always reminds me of the now non-existant exhibition of the valencia orange at Anaheim. The disappearance of that show was a distinct loss to an industry which makes Orange county famous.

Some of the orange growers say frost damage cannot be found for 10 days or two weeks, and they do not want to find it then.

Notice item where Leland Smith, in the Placentia district, lost through theft a thousand dollars' worth of diamonds and a substantial amount of cash, which recalls a similar experience I passed through along in 1923. The fellow who "pulled" the job is dead, another of his accomplices has "bit" the dust, and if the other party to the hold-up thinks I don't know all about it, well, that's just a crazy notion.

Invitation arrives to attend annual meeting of a certain packing house, and partake of turkey dinner. Inasmuch as I am indirectly contributing to that gormandizing opportunity I have forwarded notice to include me in their list of "those present." It is a happy and satisfactory incident in the life of a citrus organization, even if you do wait a year for it. I think the infrequency is what makes it better.

If the murderer of little Charles Mattson turns out to be a paroled convict it won't surprise me. I have about the same use for a board of parole as I do for a grand jury system.

It can happen here. Curbs full of water are a pneumonia invitation if you step into them and the water fills your shoes and you tramp around the rest of the day. If you chance to be a convalescing flu patient you are more vulnerable. And if elderly, the risk is still greater. Keep your feet dry and remember the National Barn Dance program. I've got to avoid advertising, but this is gettin' fairly close to it.

Bank stockholders met Tuesday to select directors for the financial ship of state, and if the weather means anything, they are off to a successful voyage. There is plenty of water for smooth sailing, no storms appear on the financial horizon, and all of these institutions are prepared to functionize 100 per cent for the benefit of the community.

The usual early morning crowds failed to appear in front of the banks Tuesday morning. The rain was falling, and outdoor waiting was not attractive. The same business which could not wait Tuesday morning on account of the rain was transacted the next day, and the world moved on as usual.

Well, maybe we are getting back to normalcy, but if we can do it with congress in session it will be a sure sign the depression is thoroughly licked.

Now, all I need is transportation and I'll be going places. Julia Ann Hyde, she of the travel service, ensconsed in the Commercial National bank, has notified several people who are able to travel and so contemplate winter trips, that the way is again open for voyages east by the largest ships in the inter-coastal trade, following interruption of the maritime strike. The Panama-Pacific line announces resumption of service via Acapulco (for Mexico City), the canal, Havana and New York City, the sailing point being from the Lower California port of Ensenada. The SS. "Virginia" sails Feb. 7, and the SS. "Pennsylvania" Feb. 21. Avoiding the maritime embargo, passengers are transferred at the steamship line's expense from San Francisco, Los Angeles and San Diego by special trains to San Ysidor, and by de luxe bus to Ensenada. So pack up your troubles in your old kit bag and get goin'.
